REMEMBRANCE DAY IS OBSERVED WITH IMPRESSIVE RITES

Victoria, in Common With British Empire, Marks Seventeenth Anniversary of Armistice at Colorful Scene—Public Interest Heightened—City Observes Two Minutes' Silence

SUNLIGHT breaking through rainclouds to touch the upturned faces of a throng of several thousand persons gathered at the Victoria War Memorial yesterday made an impressive moment at a traditional Remembrance Day service which had been carried through without hitch. An unusually large number of veterans attended, accompanied by a representative turnout of naval, military and patriotic organizations.

Rain, which had fallen intermittently through the earlier part of a fifty-minute service, built around Empire-wide observance of two minutes silence, stopped abruptly as the Union Jack on the flagstaff at the Legislative grounds was being returned to its peak. Piercing the clouds, the sun struck the war memorial into bold relief just as Reveille was played by a naval bugler, and the laying of wreaths on the plinth commenced.

CONTRACT WILL BE LUCRATIVE

Hon. David Croll Signs Motion Picture Agreement for Dionne Quintuplets

TORONTO, Nov. 11 (P).—A contract between the guardians of the Dionne quintuplets and Fox Twentieth Century Films for a motion picture featuring the five sisters received the approval over the week-end of Hon. David A. Croll, Ontario Minister of Labor-Welfare and special guardian of the quintuplets. It was officially announced last night.

Financial terms of the contract were not revealed, but a statement from Mr. Croll's office said the photograph would be titled "The Country Doctor," and would be based largely on the life of Dr. A. R. Dafoe, physician-guardian to the quintuplets. Whether Dr. Dafoe would play in the picture could not be learned definitely. It was known, however, that all parts of the picture in which the quintuplets appear will be produced in the children's nursery at Callander under the doctor's supervision.

TOO GOOD TO MISS
Mr. Croll said the contract was "lucrative," and added that "terms of the new contract were so good that, in the interests of the children, the guardians felt they could not pass up the very substantial addition to the quintuplets' fund."

The fund now has reached the $200,000 point, with the sisters seventeen months old.

HUNTER SHOT IN MISTAKE FOR DEER
Walter Pryde in Hospital at Nanaimo Dangerously Wounded By Buckshot Charge
NANAIMO, Nov. 11.—Walter Pryde, a linotype operator, resident of the Quarterway district, two miles north of Nanaimo, is in Nanaimo Hospital, the victim of a shooting accident early Sunday morning.

Pryde was hunting deer three miles north of Departure Bay. William Gilmour was also after deer, carrying a shotgun loaded with buckshot. Gilmour, it is alleged, heard a noise in the brush, and taking it for a deer, fired. One pellet entered the back of Pryde, and lodged in the lung; another passed through his arm. A log, between Gilmour and Pryde, received most of the charge of buckshot, but the two pellets which hit Pryde may prove fatal.

Observe Anniversary of Armistice

Naval and military troops gathered on Belleville Street, war veterans in the driveway to left of the Cenotaph, and a portion of a large crowd that attended the Remembrance Day service yesterday, at Parliament Square, are shown in this picture taken during the ceremony. Though rain fell during the service, the sun broke through the clouds at the end, lighting up the march past that followed.

Shanghai Demonstrators Smash Show Window of Shop Owned by Japanese

CHINESE FLOCKING INTO SETTLEMENT

SHANGHAI, Nov. 11 (P).—Demonstrators hurled bricks and bottles through the show window of a Japanese-owned store in Shanghai tonight after more troops were landed from Japanese warships because of critical Sino-Japanese relations.

After smashing the window on one of the city's busiest corners, and then dropping handbills urging "War on Japan to save China," the demonstrators melted away.

Japanese officials said the crowd was made up of Chinese. A spokesman for the International Settlement police said, however, the reports ascribing the window smashing to Chinese terrorists were premature and declared the identity and nationality of the members of the crowd were uncertain.

NEW INVESTIGATION

The Japanese naval officers obtained an agreement from Settlement police to launch a new investigation into the slaying on Saturday night here of a Japanese marine, Hideo Nakayama.

BRAZIL-BOUND FLYER ARRIVES IN MOROCCO

LONDON, Nov. 11 (CP-Havas).—Miss Jean Batten, youthful New Zealand flyer, accomplished the first leg of her projected flight from England to South America today when she landed at Casablanca, Morocco, at 4:15 p.m.

After refueling there, she planned to proceed to Tunis, Senegal, where she expected to take off across the South Atlantic for Natal, Brazil.

Fifty-Four Persons Await Rescue After Ship Breaks in Two

British Freighter Silverhazel Wrecked in Straits Near Manila—Heavy Seas Prevent Removal Of Passengers and Crew From Rocks

MANILA, Nov. 12 (P).—An unsigned message saying "So far all is well," was flashed here early today from the site of the wrecked British freighter Silverhazel, ashore in treacherous San Bernardino Straits with fifty-four persons aboard.

The message, received by A. G. Henderson, vice-president of the Silver Java Pacific Line, said the crew of forty-nine had been contacted on the bleak rock against which the vessel crashed and broke in two. No mention was made of the one man and four women passengers, but it was assumed here reference to "all is well" indicated they were in no immediate danger. Henderson received the message at 6:33 a.m., shortly after word came that the United States destroyer Peary had reached the wreck and was standing by for other rescue vessels.

Women Voters in Majority by More Than 2,000,000

LONDON, Nov. 11 (P).—Publication today of the electorate figure for the balloting on Thursday reminded Great Britain of a major post-war problem, the excess of adult females. The electorate totals show that 16,525,346 women will have the right to vote, as against 14,780,281 men—an excess of more than 2,000,000 women.

VANCOUVER, Nov. 11 (P).—Mrs. William Mann suffered fractured collarbone, pelvis and ribs from a peculiar accident while driving with her husband and friends today.

ESTABLISH NEW MARK FOR TRIP

Llewellyn and Mrs. Wyndham Lower Record From Capetown to London

HANWORTH, England, Nov. 11 (P).—Flying Officer David Llewellyn and Mrs. Jill Wyndham, wife of Commander Wyndham, today established a new record for a flight from Capetown to London of 6 days 12 hours and 17 minutes.

Tired after their air journey of more than 5,000 miles, they landed at Hanworth at 3:20 p.m.

The former record was set by Amy Johnson and Mrs. May Gurnea, who made the flight in December, 1932, in 7 days 7 hours and 5 minutes. The old mark was bettered by eighteen hours and forty-eight minutes.

TOOK EAST COAST ROUTE

Llewellyn and Mrs. Wyndham followed the east coast route, traveling to Calcutta and then via Athens, Brindisi and Marseille. Mrs. Wyndham flew along the west coast and across the Sahara Desert.

Mrs. Wyndham, obviously suffering from the sudden change in climate, said she would like to participate in an attempt at a record in the opposite direction. The pair attempted to set a London-Cape record, but were forced down in Egypt and finished the flight by easy stages.

MAKE EARLY START IN WINTER FLYING

EDMONTON, Nov. 11 (P).—Setting a new record for the start of winter flying in the Northwest, two air planes loaded with fresh food and other supplies for the mining camps at goldfields and Great Bear Lake left here on Sunday.

NO OFFICIAL NOTICE

Italy, he added, has received no official notice that sanctions have been invoked, but "we know they have been, because we read about them in newspapers and have experienced their effects."

He explained that the protests were made directly to individual nations rather than through the League, because Italy regards the sanctions committee as outside the League. A text of the note may be made public tomorrow.

SEATTLE, Nov. 11 (P).—The 3,217-ton steel freighter Hamilton F. McCormick rammed a concrete retaining wall at the shore end of Pier Six today.

Prime Minister Mackenzie King and President Roosevelt Make Simultaneous Announcements Of Conclusion of Negotiations—Details of Treaty Withheld Until It Is Signed

OTTAWA, Nov. 11 (CP).—Definite agreement on the terms of a reciprocal trade treaty between Canada and United States was reached by the Governments of both countries early today and announced simultaneously in Ottawa and Washington by Prime Minister King and President Roosevelt.

Both Administration leaders linked this step toward strengthening good will between their countries with general sentiments for peace and amity among nations being expressed throughout the world in the course of Armistice Day observances.

Details of the treaty are being kept closely guarded pending the time when it will be ready for official signing, probably later this week. At that time details will be made public simultaneously in the two capitals. Mr. King will leave for Washington, probably Wednesday, to sign on behalf of Canada, after which he will proceed farther South for the holiday he interrupted in order to conclude the trade negotiations.

Expressing great pleasure and satisfaction in the speedy agreement on terms, Mr. King, at a newspaper conference called immediately after the Armistice Day ceremonies on Parliament Hill, said he hoped the treaty would "show to an anxious and troubled world a better way of solving its difficulties."

QUAKE ROCKS MONTserrat

Churches Partly Destroyed In Plymouth—Waterworks And Telephone Disrupted

PLYMOUTH, Montserrat, B.W.I. Nov. 11 (P).—Rocked by earthquakes, this "emerald isle of the Caribbean" counted heavy property damage tonight as its 13,000 inhabitants feared a recurrence of the tremors.

All over the island's thirty-two-mile surface, homes and other buildings had been either damaged or wrecked outright. Plymouth's water supply had been cut off by the breaking of its main pipeline. The town's telephone service was disrupted.

NOBODY INJURED

But none of the island's white and negro population was injured. Downtown Plymouth, where the damage was heaviest as the quakes rumbled Sunday afternoon and through the night, was almost deserted at the time. Churches had been emptied, fortunately, before two of them—St. Peter's and the Roman Catholic structure—met partial destruction.

Safe After Holding to Car's Axle

STRATFORD, Ont., Nov. 11 (P).—The daring young man on the flying trapeze is a piker compared to Jack Jeffries, aged fourteen. Jeffries was riding his bicycle today when an automobile, driven by an allegedly intoxicated man, struck him. The automobile was passing over the boy, and rather than take a chance on having the car turn and one of the rear wheels crush him, he grabbed the front axle and hung on. He was dragged eighty-five feet before the car stopped and he climbed out from under, after receiving only minor bruises and abrasions.

Balloon Ascends to Record Altitude in Stratosphere Flight

Captains Stevens and Anderson Soar to Fourteen Miles Over South Dakota—Trip Made Without Accident—Valuable Data Obtained

WHITE LAKE, S.D., Nov. 11 (P).—A gentle landing by the world's largest balloon in a field near here today successfully ended man's most far-reaching venture into the heights of the stratosphere—to an unofficially recorded altitude of fourteen miles.

Two United States Army flyers, Captains Albert W. Stevens and Orville Anderson—if later calculations sustain their barometric computations of 14,000 feet as the zenith of their soaring—by the daring venture, captured the world's altitude record and brought back valuable additions to science's knowledge of the super-atmosphere.

The feat, climaxing a six-week-long wait for favorable weather and compensation for two previous disappointments on their part, moved smoothly to its climax after the rocky wall of their camp's base was cleared—by only fifty feet—at 8 o'clock this morning.

FRUIT PACKERS' PLANT DESTROYED

Fire at Creston Burns Warehouses And Thousands of Boxes Of Apples

CRESTON, B.C., Nov. 11 (P).—About 12,000 boxes of apples, along with complete receiving, shipping and storing warehouses and modern equipment, the property of the fruit packing and shipping firm of Long, Allan & Long, Ltd., are in ruins at Erickson, near here, as the result of fire on Saturday.

Four box cars standing on the Canadian Pacific Railway track were also destroyed. Origin of the fire is unknown. No estimate of the damage is available.

Lumber, Cattle and Minerals Included in Trading Agreements

Fish, Liquors and Agricultural Products Also Among Canadian Articles Most Affected by Treaty to Be Signed With United States

OTTAWA, Nov. 11 (P).—Lumber, live cattle, minerals, both metallic and non-metallic, certain grades of fish, alcoholic liquors and possibly some agricultural products, are believed to be the Canadian products most affected by the new trading agreement between United States and Canada.

United States products likely to be affected by the new agreement are thought to include mining, electrical and some farm machinery and a wide range of manufactured articles not produced to any great extent, if at all, in Canada, and some raw or semi-manufactured products.

DETAILS GUARDED

Details of the treaty will be kept closely guarded until Prime Minister Mackenzie King signs the finished treaty in Washington, probably later this week.

It is understood the Canadian Government will give United States most-favored-nation treatment. This would give them the intermediate tariff on a wide range of commodities and some concessions lower than the intermediate tariff, available at once because they have already been approved by Parliament for countries enjoying most-favored-nation treatment.

When the United States Government last January communicated to Canada a desire to open trade negotiations, strong objections arose from many sections of the country, where it was feared the way would be opened to imports of Canadian fish, lumber and agricultural products, of which there was a surplus in United States.

OFFICIALS' DECLARATION

Officials of the Agriculture Department in Washington were reported to have declared as late as last week that there could be no agreement that would let Canadian agricultural products compete with the domestic farm products.

Service at Base of War Memorial

Rev. E. F. Church leading the Armistice anniversary service at the Victoria War Memorial, yesterday. To either side of the officiating minister may be seen naval and military guards who, with arms reversed, surrounded the base of the monument during the ceremony. Amplifiers carried the impressive service that followed.

centred about the automobile industry, but it was not believed likely that there would be any marked reduction in the Canadian tariff against motor cars at the moment. The Tariff Board is now conducting an inquiry into the cost of car production in Canada. The report will not be ready until Parliament meets in January.

Canadian livestock interests are particularly anxious that a reduction be made in the United States tariff on live cattle. At present, when weighing over 700 pounds, the tariff for live weight is three cents a pound, and for smaller cattle and calves, two and one-half cents.

PRICES ADVANCE

With the scarcity of beef in the United States, prices have advanced to such an extent that 100,000 head of heavy cattle and 17,000 calves were shipped in the first ten months of this year.

What has hit the lumber exports from Canada to the United States has been the $3 per thousand feet excise duty.

SERVICE AT OTTAWA

OTTAWA, Nov. 11 (P).—A solemn national service of remembrance on Parliament Hill today gave expression to Canada's respect for and gratitude to the 60,000 Canadians who lost their lives in the Great War.

In the shadow of the Peace Tower, which stands as Canada's permanent war memorial, and which contains the Altar of Remembrance, a temporary cenotaph was erected and high officers of the Government and of the armed forces gathered with the war veterans, the war widows and the general public of the capital to share in the service.

The occasion marked the first public appearance of the new Governor-General, Baron Tweedsmuir. His Excellency was the central figure at the Cenotaph during the service and at its conclusion laid the first wreath.

A special honor was paid to the war-bereaved womanhood of Canada by allotting the place immediately after the Governor-General to a representative of the widows and mothers of men who were slain. Mrs. Catherine Lewis, of Westboro, a suburb of Ottawa, was chosen to lay the wreath for the bereaved women. She is eighty-one years old and two of her four sons were killed in action, while the other two saw service during the war, one overseas and one in Canada.

Prime Minister Mackenzie King laid the third wreath on behalf of the Government of Canada. Then followed a long procession of Cabinet Ministers and Privy Counsellors, including two former Prime Ministers, Sir Robert Borden and Rt. Hon. R. B. Bennett.

Diplomatic representatives of other countries attended and brought wreaths. Representatives of many national organizations, churches and other bodies, as well as of the city of Ottawa, took part in the wreath-laying procession. Tolling of the bells in the Peace Tower was the first act of the service. The tolling continued for fifteen minutes while some 2,000 war veterans and all units of the Ottawa garrison marched in and took up allotted positions on the wide lawn in front of the Parliament Buildings.

SINGLE GUN FIRED

The Governor-General, escorted by the Prime Minister, arrived just before 11 o'clock, and sharp at that hour a single field gun was fired, the signal for the start of the two-minute silence. Another shot from the gun brought to an end the hush. Led by a band the crowd then sang "O Canada," followed by Chopin's Funeral March played by massed garrison bands. A pipe band contributed the Scottish lament, "The Flowers of the Forest," and the two hymns "O Valiant Hearts" and "Abide With Me" were sung.

A bugle band on the steps of the Parliament Buildings sounded the Last Post, and then, from the lofty balcony of the Peace Tower, a single bugler sounded the Reveille.

Following the service the organized veterans led a march past the Peace Tower. In former years a salute was taken by the Prime Minister, but this year a change was made and the marching men saluted the Altar of Remembrance as they passed the tower.

IN THE MARITIMES As bells tolled 11 a.m. Atlantic time, the busy life of the Maritime provinces stopped abruptly for two minutes' silence. Military units paraded with veterans to the memorial, where Lieut.-Governor W. H. Covert took the salute. Veterans' graves were decorated with the poppies of remembrance. Throughout Nova Scotia, New Brunswick and Prince Edward Island similar ceremonies were held. At Saint John, N.B., Nova Scotia's war veteran Premier, Angus MacDonald, delivered a short address.

The present angry and suspicious mood of world nations is a betrayal of the ideals of those who gave their lives in the last war, he said.

One hour later Central Canada paid tribute to the fallen as 11 a.m. Eastern standard time struck. In the shadow of the Old Citadel in Quebec, at the Cenotaph in Dominion Square at Montreal, in front of the Parliament Buildings at Ottawa and at Toronto's city hall, reverent thousands bent their heads in respect for the dead.

PLANES DROP POPPIES Cities throughout the central part of the Dominion paid their respects to the fallen. Two airplanes dropped over Kitchener, Ont., dropping poppies over the city while commemorative ceremonies proceeded far below them. Bishop Rockborough R. Smith, of Algoma, led services at Sault Ste. Marie.

The signal guns crashed out an hour later where Western time begins west of Fort William, Ont. Imposing ceremonies were held at Winnipeg and other Manitoba cities.

Veterans from Saskatchewan and Alberta marched through the streets to take their turn in Dominion observance of the day of remembrance one hour after the whistles and bugles were still in Manitoba.

Last to pay their honor to Canada's illustrious dead were British Columbians on Pacific time.

QUAKE ROCKS MONTERRAT

In St. Peter's, the chancel caved in and wrecked the altar. The quakes just about completed the ruin of the Catholic church, weakened in May by another series of tremors.

The island's only hospital, with twenty-one patients in it, was shaken so severely that sixteen had to be removed home. Government House and the island commissioner's home were damaged. Sections of a hotel were left unsafe for habitation.

Also unsafe was the Belham Bridge, linking Plymouth with Montserrat's northern area.

CAUSE LANDSLIDE

Outside Plymouth the shocks dislodged a great mass of earth that rolled down a hillside and carried away the water main. Resulting dearth of water was not felt acutely today, because residents made temporary use of wells in the town.

The quakes, though sharp, did not take the island by surprise. For the last two weeks there had been preliminary rumblings that told the islanders they could expect a major shock soon.

Through yesterday afternoon and last night, nearby Antigua shuddered under the force of a steady series of quakes, and the damage there was substantial, but no buildings fell. Sharp vibrations were felt on St. Kitts, but with scant damage.

Use Machine Gun To Stop Explosion

WILLARD, Kas., Nov. 11 (P).—A machine gun, its rat-tat-tat an unscheduled part of Willard's Armistice Day observances, punctured a flame-surrounded gasoline tank late today, prevented its explosion and saved this Kansas community of 100 from threatened demolition. The wrecking of a tank train started a fire among six gasoline-laden cars, which burst open.

LITTLE CHANGE IN VOTE COUNT

McGeer Gains Eight in Sixty-One Burrard Ballot Boxes in Court Tally

VANCOUVER, Nov. 11 (P).—With a number of ballots being put aside for further consideration, there is little ground upon which to base a claim for gain by either candidate.

Returning Officer R. G. Phipps said tonight concerning the recount of the October 14 general election, now proceeding in Vancouver-Burrard.

From figures available it would appear that G. O. McGeer, Liberal, made a net gain of eight votes today on the basis of sixty-one boxes recounted out of a total of 173.

On the original official count, Arnold Webster, C.C.F., had a majority of four votes.

PIONEER OF CITY PASSES

Frederick John Smith Dies, Creating Void in Hearts Of Many Children

Another of Victoria's pioneers passed away yesterday in the person of Frederick John Smith, aged seventy-four years, of 423 Parry Street. The death occurred at the family residence, after a short illness.

Born in London, England, Mr. Smith came to this city fifty years ago, and engaged in the painting contract business. He was very well known in Victoria, although he led a very quiet life, and did not associate himself with any organizations.

MADE TOYS

His passing will create a void in the hearts of many children who had come to love him deeply. Intensely fond of children, Mr. Smith, during his retirement, found time to enlarge upon his hobby of making toys—toys that would gladden the hearts of little boys and girls. He first became interested in toy-making when his grandchildren, and later his great-grandchildren, came to visit him. When they went to his home, they always found some toy ready for their amusement.

The scope of his activity was widened when he retired, so that there was hardly a boy or girl in his neighborhood who had not at some time or other received one of his gifts.

Those who survive his widow, two stepdaughters, Mrs. Ada A. Miles and Miss Agnes A. Morris,

REMEMBRANCE DAY OBSERVED WIDELY

B.E.S.L., Vice-Consul R. M. Newcomb, of the United States Consulate; Chief Thomas Heatley, and representatives of the veterans and patriotic organizations deposited wreaths at the base of the pedestal in that order.

His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor was represented by A. M. D. Fairbairn and aides from Government House, having previously deposited a wreath at the monument.

IN HONOR OF DEAD

The second verse of Mary J. Barron's beautiful hymn, the "Silent Tribute," supplied the keynote of an impressive service, being as follows: "Before Thee, God, we humbly stand."

In tribute to that gallant band of soldiers, sailors, nurses, all Who gave their lives at country's call; And now our prayers rise up to Thee, In reverence of their memory."

"O Valiant Hearts"; a verse from "O Canada," interspersed with prayers by Rev. E. F. Church, former chaplain to the Canadian Engineers, concluding with "God Save the King," rounded out a service that stretched almost to an hour, including necessary preliminaries.

TWO MINUTES SILENCE

The two-minute silence opened and closed with discharge of a light field gun on Belleville Street, bringing city traffic to a halt. The dipping of the colors, sounding of the Last Post, followed by Reveille, marked impressive stages in the progress of the service, concluding with the laying of wreaths and the National Anthem.

Fully representative of permanent and active naval and military forces here, uniformed detachments from Esquimalt, Work Point and regiments from the Bay Street Armories, made a smart showing in the march past that followed after the memorial ceremony. Lieut.-General Sir Percy Lake, Brigadier D. J. MacDonald and Commander G. C. Jones, R.C.N., were grouped at the saluting base in front of the Empress Hotel.

JUNIOR SERVICES

Included at the service and in the march past were smart detachments of Sea Scouts, Scouts and Guides. The place of honor in the line was given to actual war veterans, followed by hundreds of whom paraded, with war decorations from South African, European and other wars.

Bands of the 5th B.C. Coast Brigade, C.A.; First Battalion, Canadian Scottish Regiment; the Canadian Legion, B.E.S.L., and the pipe band of the little unit played before, during and after the dual ceremonies. Pipe-Major Alex Wallace played a Highland lament, the "Flowers of the Forest."

Arrangements for the Remembrance Day ceremonies were carried out by the Canadian Legion, in co-operation with naval and military forces here. The seventeenth anniversary of the Armistice found public attendance at the function growing rather than lessening, despite a

States Tomorrow Is Greatest Gift of God to Mankind

Rev. E. F. Church Delivers Inspiring Message at Remembrance Day Service Held in Christ Church Cathedral—Colors Presented

"GOD'S greatest gift to man is tomorrow. Tomorrow, with all its hopes and aspirations; the future with its possibilities for good or evil." This was the keynote of the sermon delivered by Rev. E. F. Church at the Remembrance Day service held in Christ Church Cathedral, Sunday afternoon, and which was attended by representatives from Government House, Premier T. D. Pattullo and members of the Provincial Cabinet; Mayor David Leeming and members of the City Council; representatives from the navy and militia, war veterans and the general public.

The service was under civic auspices and was purely non-denominational. It was held for the purpose of commemorating Armistice and the end of four years of bloody wars, such as the world had never seen before. It was held, also, to keep alive the purpose for which the war was fought, and to urge the public generally to aspire toward international peace and good will.

EXPRESS APPRECIATION

Mr. Church, prior to his sermon, expressed his appreciation to the city and Christ Church Cathedral for making the service possible, and took the occasion to voice the congregation's pleasure at having present Rt. Rev. C. D. Schofield, Bishop of Columbia, who conducted the service.

Mr. Church took for his text the eighteenth verse of chapter eleven from the Book of Numbers, which reads:

"And say unto the people, Sanctify yourselves against tomorrow, and ye shall eat flesh."

Mr. Church interpreted this passage of Scripture as inspiring the people with the feeling that God promised a tomorrow.

"The best thing we possess is the future. The past is beyond altering. The present is in the making. The future holds the possibilities for good or evil. Tomorrow is our greatest hope."

It was characteristic of the human race to live in the future, the speaker said, "for in tomorrow we have hope, as against a bad today and an unalterable yesterday."

"Tomorrow life begins again. The best gift God could give was tomorrow. Without tomorrow we have nothing."

ANSWERS CYNICS

To the cynic the future meant nothing. His viewpoint was that life might just as well stop, since without a tomorrow there could be no hope. Mr. Church quoted Shakespeare, Omar Khayyam and Locke Lampton to illustrate how futile was the outlook of a cynic.

God had provided a future for young and old. To the young the future held a challenge to them to improve its social order; to bring about international fellowship and good will and bring the people in closer communion with God. To the old there was the future of seeing the sunrise of eternal morning. From this point Mr. Church passed to the topic of what kind of tomorrow was desired. In the Scripture, he said, the Hebrews, on their march to the Promised Land, looked for meat. The predicament of Moses, under the clamoring of the multitude, was analogous to governments of today which were besieged on every hand with pleas for food.

GOVERNMENT'S DUTY

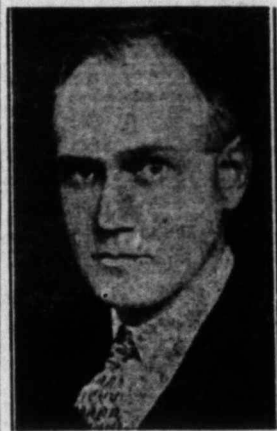

He expressed the view that governments probably had gone far enough. "We should not look for governments to feed us. It endangers our rugged individualism and takes away something of our self-reliance, self-respect and independence. Governments were expected to be too paternal." Mr. Church declared, adding that it was the duty, however, of governments to so improve the social order that some form of standardized labor would be provided in order that the people might earn their daily bread, retain their self-reliance, self-respect and independence of spirit.

There were three types of persons, who had three visions of what tomorrow meant. There were those who, looking back into the past, thought tomorrow was but yesterday over again. Another group felt that everything was all right, and why change. Like Tolstol, they cried out: "Let all of tomorrows be as today."

THE THIRD GROUP
The third, and most important, was that group which looked to the future with hope; which looked to tomorrow as God's gift, and a gift that should be prized and made use of. They were the ones who questioned themselves and asked "What do we desire most?"

Mr. Church's answer to this question was peace. "Canada's greatest desire for tomorrow is peace. Her desire should be to develop her internal affairs along sound social lines that the people may become self-reliant. The Empire's desire is for peace and good-will toward all men," he stated. He spoke with pride of Great Britain's stand in supporting the League of Nations in its present crisis, and expressed the hope that Great Britain would stand just as staunchly behind the League when her own interests were not so involved.

The eighteenth annual convention of the British Columbia Hospitals Association will hold its three-day sessions here this week, beginning tomorrow morning, at the Empress Hotel. Above, are some officers of the organization: Honorary president, Hon. Dr. G. M. Weir (Victoria); Provincial Secretary, president, E. W. Neel (Duncan); second vice-president, S. J. Drake (Victoria); and secretary-treasurer, J. H. McVety (Vancouver). E. S. Withers, New Westminster, is first vice-president.

WARLESS WORLD

"Tomorrow," he said, "must envisage a warless world, a world free from suspicion and hatred. We want a virtuous tomorrow. How are we to get it? We must sanctify ourselves for tomorrow. We must look not only forward, but upward. Lift our eyes up unto the hills from whence cometh our help. We must look upon life as a sacred thing; a sacrament rather than a profane existence. We must sanctify ourselves by purging ourselves of sin. Thus will we bring about a tomorrow full of hope possible of fulfillment."

Prior to the service, the colors of various units were presented to Rt. Rev. E. F. Church, Bishop Coadjutor of Columbia. The units represented were the Rainbow Sea Scouts; Victoria Association, Boy Scouts; Victoria Association, Girl Guides; Army and Navy Veterans in Canada; Naval Veterans, Canadian Legion; Victoria District Council, Canadian Legion; Britannia Branch, Canadian Legion; Pro Patria Branch, Canadian Legion, and British Campaigners' Branch, Canadian Legion.

TAKE PART IN SERVICE
The service was opened with the singing of "O God Our Help in Ages Past." Rev. G. A. Reynolds led the prayer, after which Rt. Rev. G. E. Lloyd, D.D., read the lesson. Prior to the address, the congregation sang "I Vow to Thee, My Country." The concluding hymn was "O Valiant Hearts."

"After the final hymn, the Last Post was sounded by the Royal Canadian Naval Buglers. Between the Last Post and the sounding of Reveille, there was a one-minute silence for prayer.

On the concluding notes of the Reveille, the color-bearers brought their colors from the chancel and stood at attention while the National Anthem was sung. The service was then concluded by Bishop Schofield pronouncing the blessing.

PICTURE WITHDRAWN FROM CIRCULATION

NEW YORK, Nov. 11 (AP)—Albert Dean, publicity manager of Paramount International, said tonight Marlene Dietrich's starring picture, "The Devil Is a Woman," which aroused the indignation of Spain's War Minister, would be withdrawn from world circulation at the suggestion of the State Department.

War Minister Jose Maria Gil Robles, of Spain, objected to the film on the grounds that a cafe drinking scene "insulted the Spanish armed forces."

CHINA CLIPPER REACHES BASE

Big Machine Ready to Enter
New Service Across
The Pacific

ALAMEDA, Cal., Nov. 11 (AP)—America's greatest flying boat, the China Clipper seaplane, arrived here today ready for trans-Pacific service.

The silver-streamed air liner, which will carry passengers, mail and express over the 8,000-mile route from here to the Orient, skimmed gracefully onto this San Francisco Bay base.

Captain Edwin Musick and his crew of four brought the twenty-five-ton ship up the coast from San Diego, on the last hop of a flight from Miami, Fla., in four hours and ten minutes.

Before coming down, the big, four-motored seaplane circled for forty-five minutes over San Francisco Bay cities. In addition to the crew, the plane carried nineteen passengers.

Pan-American Airways' officials, who witnessed the arrival, declared all was in readiness for the first service flight to the Orient, scheduled by the United States Postoffice Department to start November 22. It will be a mail flight only.

AWAIT RESCUE AFTER SHIP BREAKS IN TWO

ships standing by were the steamer Tana, the Governor Taft, an inter-island steamer, and the United States Steamship Company's New York.

LIFE BOATS sent out by rescue ships were tossed about by the rip tide and heavy swells of San Bernardino Straits, in which the wreck was discovered, and were forced to turn back. Captains of the vessels sent out appeals for some ship with motor-power life boats to come to their aid.

"Any boat with motor would help a great deal," a message from the captain of the New York said. He reported the crew of the Silverhazel appeared to be on the rock-wedged fore part of the stricken vessel. Some thirty persons were on the rock.

ON HER WAY TO MANILA
A. G. Henderson, vice-president of the Silver Java Pacific Line, said the Silverhazel, a 3,901-ton craft, apparently struck the rock early Sunday near the end of her voyage from San Francisco to Manila.

"Maybe their wireless was immediately decommissioned," he added. "If so, they have been on the rock two days and one night."

Noted Speakers to Attend Convention In City This Week

British Columbia Hospitals Association to Hold Annual Sessions Here Wednesday, Thursday and Friday—Important Discussions Are Scheduled

SEVERAL of Canada's leading medical men and experts in hospital administration will be in Victoria this week in connection with the eighteenth annual convention of the British Columbia Hospitals' Association to be held on Wednesday, Thursday and Friday, at the Empress Hotel. MOVE TO TEST SOCIAL LAWS

Making Application to Supreme Court to Fix Date For Hearing

OTTAWA, Nov. 11 (AP)—Application will be made on Thursday in the Supreme Court of Canada to fix date for hearing of the reference on the constitutionality of social legislation passed at the last session of Parliament.

The application, which will be made by Justice Department officers, will be heard in chambers. It probably will come before Sir Lyman Duff, Chief Justice, personally. Prime Minister Mackenzie King has expressed the hope that the court's decision will be ready in time for convening of the Dominion-Provincial conference, postponed until December 9.

ACTS IN QUESTION

Opinion of the court on the constitutionality of eight measures will be asked. These comprise the Weekly Day of Rest, Minimum Wages, Limitation of the Hour of Work, Employment and Social Insurance, Dominion Trade and Industry Commission, Natural Products Marketing Act, Farmers' Creditors Arrangement Act and an amendment to the Criminal Code increasing penalties for bad business practices.

IS LONESOME FOR LIFE IN PRISON

Former Life-Termer Asks Police To Return Him to Penitentiary At Kingston

MONTREAL, Nov. 11 (AP)—Joseph Chartrand is lonesome for the home that was his for thirty-one years. Today he walked into police headquarters and asked to be taken back to the old home in Kingston, Ont., Portsmouth Penitentiary.

Chartrand, fifty-nine, was released from the penitentiary last August after serving close to thirty-one years for the murder of Constable Irvine on a Sudbury-bound train at Webbwood, Ont., October 11, 1904. He was originally condemned to be hanged, but sentence was commuted to life imprisonment. Last August he was released on condition he would go and live in the House of Providence, an old-age institution near the penitentiary. He was given $150 to hand over to the home.

But he lighted out for the bright lights of the wicked city and before he knew it the $150 was gone. So Chartrand wants to go back. Whether police will take him is another question.

PROGRESS OF THE WAR

Either because of a close censorship or the character of the operations, there is but little known of the actual progress of the Italo-Ethiopian War. The correspondents at the seats of war have not covered themselves with glory in their writings. There are prolonged lapses of news from Ethiopia. Since Adowa was captured, a victory that seems to have been largely bloodless, news has trickled through in a very sparing fashion. The occupation of Aksum was not a victory, though it has provided the Italians with an air base on Ethiopian soil from which they can extend their air offensive. As a matter of fact the advance of the Italians in the north has been slow, indicating the nature of the ground that it is necessary to cover and the difficulties in consolidating the new positions won. Up to the present there has been nothing in the nature of a main engagement, which is probably due to Ethiopian military strategy.

Italy has three army corps operating in the north, and therefore the problem of supply is a difficult one. So far whatever is known of the situation, and it is little enough, seems to suggest that there is still a vast no man's land between the Italian and the Ethiopian armies. It is true that the Italians have yet to cover fifty or sixty miles before they meet with any organized resistance, the nature of their task becomes apparent, because all the time they are being harassed in a guerrilla campaign which must be racking to the nerves of any army. The longer the Italian lines of communication are extended the more vulnerable they will become. That is what the Ethiopians are counting on, and they remain quite unperturbed by air attacks. In the south, the advance of General Graziani's forces has been slowed down by the rains, and the attack in that direction is being carried on with the utmost caution. Italy is reckoning on a long-distance air barrage to weaken the morale of the Ethiopians. What the Italians are aiming at in the south is to reach Jijiga and to sever the Ethiopians' line of munition supply from overseas through Berbera. The Italians are also hoping to cut another line of supply from the Sudan by their advance from the north. It is these threats that must eventually be met by the Ethiopians. In the meantime the plan of campaign leaves much to be understood. There never was a war in which, in modern times, the world was so ill served with news.

SIR CHARLES KINGSFORD-SMITH

Hope has well nigh been abandoned for Sir Charles Kingsford-Smith, the most noted of all aviators, who disappeared over the Bay of Bengal last week and has not been heard of since. He was accompanied in his attempt to beat the England-to-Australia record by Mr. Tom Pettybridge as co-pilot. When he was last heard of he was traveling fast and had every chance of making better time than the Scott-Campbell airplane which won the Melbourne Centenary air race. If it is unfortunately true that Sir Charles Kingsford-Smith and his companion have been killed, the world has lost its premier pilot and aviation its most notable character.

Sir Charles Kingsford-Smith had a list of achievements to his credit equalled by no living aviator and never surpassed in the history of the science. He was a pioneer in every sense of the word. Not only was he intrepid as a pilot, but he had an almost uncanny knowledge of what to expect while flying, and his appreciation of the mechanical ability of his machine was unequalled. He was in every respect the flyer equipped in an all-round way and possessed of all the human elements that go to the make-up of the perfect aviator. His loss is as heavy a loss as aviation could suffer. In an age of daring, in forwarding the science of aeronautics, Sir Charles Kingsford-Smith was well in the van. That was agreed by all nations. His death is an international calamity, for he was one of the blazers of trails who make the history of civilization's advance in the realm of transportation.

BOOK WEEK

The annual Book Week arranged by the Canadian Authors' Association has become an established thing in the record of efforts to arouse a greater amount of public interest in the literary works of people of this country. It is a slow task building up a national literature. It has been the experience of Canada that some, perhaps the most noted, of its novelists have left the country and settled down where there are larger populations to buy their productions. That is a condition that will not be overcome for many decades. Book Week has been devised in the hope that there will be such a public sentiment created as will have the effect of giving encouragement to Canadian writers to stay at home by assuring them of a profitable field for their efforts. Moreover, it is held annually so that writers will feel they have encouragement to intensify their appreciation of the wealth of material that can be found at home as the groundwork for their plots.

It is possible that Book Week has not been given sufficient publicity. Assuredly its objects are not widely enough known. There are no lack of writers in Canada, and a fair proportion of these are successful writers. Only a handful of them have a really national reputation. It is to foster national reputation that Book Week should have a special mission and also to stress on writers as a whole the need for intensive study and as wide an experience of their fellow-men as it is possible to acquire if they are to be successful in the literary world. There is no royal road to such writing as will arrest public attention. It is, in the vast majority of cases, a matter of laborious effort, of long apprenticeship, of complete absorption, of alertness, of recognition of human qualities in their diversities and of that command of words which is only acquired through study.

To attain national recognition it is necessary for any writer to establish a standard. For the permanence of his works that standard must be very high. It is all a question of very hard work and of concentration as well as of ability. These are considerations that should be taken into account by any writer before he commits himself to the task as a life career. These are the considerations that Book Week should emphasize. It has more than one object, but none so important as this.

MEDICINE DRINKERS

Medical health insurance in England has made the country a nation of medicine drinkers. Sir Kingsley Wood, the Minister of Health, is responsible for this statement. In dealing with the figures of the London Insurance Committee he pointed out that since 1917-1918 the number of medical practitioners has increased from 1,300 to 2,174, and payments have gone up from £466,000 to £700,000. The number of chemists has increased from 751 to over 1,035. Seventeen years ago the prescriptions dispensed totalled 4,377,000, and last year they numbered 8,482,000.

In England, Sir Kingsley Wood says, the people have become confirmed medicine drinkers. He does not believe this is a good thing. A visit to the doctor is regarded as synonymous with the receipt of medicine. In Scotland it is different. There is no such love there for bottles of medicine. The cost in England of medicine dispensed per head exceeds that in Scotland by approximately fifty-eight per cent. Sir Kingsley cannot account for this difference in price. The standard of treatment of disease in Scotland is no lower and the results no less satisfactory than in England. It is a question of the habits of the people. For his part he would prefer to see the people drinking more milk and less medicine. A considerable portion of the drugs could be eliminated without detriment and with advantage to the proper treatment of people. It appears that state health insurance gives a big fillip to the drug industry.

SOME ELECTION FIGURES

In the last election it required only an average of 10,730 Liberals to elect a member of that group, while the Conservatives needed 20,555 to get a member. In the total vote cast of 4,022,500 in the election of October 14, that makes an average of 16,240 for each member elected. Now it required almost twice that average for Conservative members and it required only two-thirds of the same average for Liberal members. That remains one of the anomalies of the present electoral system by which the parties benefit turn about, but which does not result in an accurate representation of popular sentiment. The Social Credit people got a member for about 7,000 votes. That completes the demonstration. But there is every probability that it will remain a theoretic system. In practice, the big parties tend to maintain the system with slight modification. Will they not in their turn benefit by the next swing of the pendulum?

—Le Devoir, Montreal.

SHADES OF GREEN

I too am partial to the shades of green. Which seem to be redundant everywhere. A color Nature favors too, it seems. For every growing thing which she must wear. Time honors most of all that which endures. The green and growing things were first in life; With Nature's nourishment the shade matures. And on her bosom everywhere is life. The Cause must choose expression through the earth—

Through animate—inanimate—things; God's gift of green has proven of its worth. By all the many blessings which it brings; If I were so inclined to worship gods, They'd be a tree—a bush—the flowers—sods.

—Forrest Elliott, in "Poetry."

DESIGN FOR PROSPERITY

It is just five years since Australia, one of the first countries to be caught in the hurricane of depression, called in Sir Otto Niemeyer, of the Bank of England, to advise her as to the way of escape from the financial chaos which threatened to engulf her. Sir Otto proposed a series of drastic economies in expenditure, both Federal and State, which were only accepted after a violent political conflict involving the secession of Mr. Lyons, the then Labor Treasurer, to head a coalition of the Opposition parties. The sacrifices were heavy, but they were borne cheerfully by the Australian people and have been abundantly justified by their results.—London Morning Post.

The man who reviews his own life from page to page had need to have been a good man indeed, if he would be spared the sharp consciousness of many talents neglected, many opportunities wasted, many erratic and perverted feelings constantly at war within his heart, and defeating him.—Charles Dickens.

The best-laid schemes of mice and men Gone with the wind.

"When the cat's away the mice will play." Any competent housewife will tell you that when the family cat is away on one of its periodical rambles, the mice do more than play; they destroy and leave an evil odor behind them. The aldermen of Vancouver are not mice; neither is the Mayor of Vancouver a feline disposition. There is more of the canine than of the feline in the cosmos of our friend Gerry. Gerry may not always be right, but he will always fight.

The Mayor of Vancouver has been engaged in several combats lately and has fought fiercely. As Rt. Hon. William Lyon Mackenzie King has pertinently pointed out, the life of a public man is not all beer and skittles; it is a sustained and continuous fight for what the warrior believes to be right, and is not always wrong. The political battle is to the strong, and all politicians have not the strength to long endure the strife. That is why the ablest and most promising of our public men become exhausted and feel the need of an occasional vacation and long trips for the benefit of their health. That probably is why the Prime Minister is on his way to Florida. That undoubtedly is why Premier Hepburn of Ontario has been compelled to announce his intention of permanently retiring from public life just when he had reached the zenith of his fame as a political campaigner.

Physical necessity compelled the Mayor of Vancouver to go somewhere on a holiday. Read the papers and note what has happened in his absence. The aldermen of Vancouver have taken an unfair advantage of his absence and knocked most of his municipal policies into a cocked hat. The aldermen did not do what they have done, or at least are trying to do, in a playful spirit. The Mayor promised the people of Vancouver many things. He promised to drive the money-changers out of their temples and a central citadel which was to be a city hall.

In order to confound the money-changers, he ordered an issue of baby bonds, from the sale of which a city hall was to be built. In the face of strong opposition, the Mayor selected a site for his municipal citadel. With fasting and prayer and psalm singing, His Worship turned the first sod for the foundation of a new million-dollar edifice with a special shovel on which had been inscribed a curiously prophetic device. For a generation the people of Vancouver have had visions of a city hall worthy of the majesty of their city, and their dreams were about "to come true."

But as soon as the cat's back was turned the mice began to play, and they have made a sorry mess of Gerry's domestic establishment. The aldermen say Strathcona Park is not the proper place for the new city hall. They say the sale of the baby bonds has not been satisfactory and that not enough money is available to construct a city hall worthy of the city, even if the park were the most suitable site from the point of view of citizens who may have business to do there. The playful aldermen are demanding that another plebiscite shall be taken to enable the citizens to decide where the new city hall (if any and ever) shall be erected.

But that is not all. There is more to follow. The political mice as well as the municipal mice have been playing and messing things up when the cat's back was turned. Before Gerry went away he was so sure that he would have the right to place M.P. after his name that he ordered the curious device to be inscribed on the shovel with which he turned the first sod which left the hole for the cornerstone of a city hall of his dreams. The deputy returning officers first began toying with the ballot papers and muddling and juggling with the returns until no one was certain whether Mr. McGeer or Mr. Webster should be Federal Member for Vancouver. Burrard. Then the returning officer scanned the tally and shocked us and all Gerry's friends by declaring Arnold elected by almost the scantiest possible majority over his nearest rival. Still there is more to follow. One of His Majesty's judges will judicially and judiciously decide who shall have the honor and the emoluments of representing the chief constituency of Vancouver in Parliament.

Nor is that the end of the comedy. Gerry is not counted out yet. In any event, when his holiday is at an end and his health restored, as it surely will be, for the worthy Mayor is endowed with a wonderful constitution, the family cat will come back, and both the mice and their fur will fly. Gerry will fight, and who dare say Gerry will not be right?

QUIET HOLIDAY OBSERVED HERE

Two Memorial Services Held in Remembrance of Armistice—Few Other Events

The seventeenth anniversary of the Armistice was observed here quietly during the week-end. A civic memorial service was held in Christ Church Cathedral on Sunday afternoon which was attended by many public dignitaries, war veterans and the general public. Ministers of different denominations took part in the service.

Yesterday morning several thousand persons took part in the Remembrance Day service at the Cenotaph in Parliament Square. Apart from these two functions, the holiday was very quiet. There were only a few sports activities. Rugby at Macdonald Park and three soccer games were the only items on the sports card.

Many Victorians took advantage of the long week-end to make special trips to the Mainland or to Up-Island points.

Long Life's Highway
A young printer we know has been pointing with pride to his new and elaborate dog kennel and telling his friends how hard it was to build. Yesterday his hard-working father told us he had to construct it for him. Several chuckles were furnished spectators during a recent court trial here. Proceedings had been under way over five minutes with only eleven jurors present. Nobody concerned missed the twelfth until he sauntered in and thus fastened attention of the court upon himself. If a cigar burns crookedly on one side, transfer it to the other hand, carry on smoking, and it will automatically straighten out, our tobaccoist friend tells us. We seldom retain one long enough to try this out. When a James Bay woman ordered a ton of black diamonds the driver handed her a city map with the firm's thank you. Two days later the son of the house was accosted by the truckman who wanted to know where a certain street was located.—G.B.

The Dog in the "Funnies"

Clifford McBride, the cartoonist who writes about Napoleon and Uncle Elby for The Colonist each day, resides for a portion of the year in Pasadena. We were informed by one of his intimates that McBride owns a dog, who looks like the comic strip hound, and Uncle Elby is a real-life figure. Napoleon's activities are said to be exaggerated results of actual things done by McBride's own dog.—W.J.H.

Open Season for Boys

November 15 sees the commencement of the annual blackball season. It is a period of suffering and fear. The League of Nations should do something to stop it, but they won't. It is even hinted that delegates to Geneva practise the black art in the private recesses of their own homes, and upon their own grandchildren. Yes, the blackball season is upon us. It lasts until December 24. In form it is used to compel small boys to wash their ears; make less noise; be unbecomingly polite; carry up wood and do a hundred and one things that are revolting to their very souls—for if they don't, then Santa Claus won't come!—B.A.M.

Thirteen Clubs

Quite worthy of "Believe It or Not" is the experience of Denis Fairbairn, son of Mr. Fairbairn, Alkazar Mansions, who, on Friday morning, when playing the last hand of a rubber of contract bridge at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. A. McKenzie, 1442 Rockland Avenue, was dealt a complete hand of thirteen clubs. Denis had had phenomenal luck all evening, and this was the crowning climax. His opponent, Lloyd McKenzie, dealt the cards which had been shuffled and cut "according to Hoyle."

Needless to say, Denis, who was leaving for Australia the next day, accepted the incident as a very good omen.—J.E.M.B.

Cutting Down

Charles Zimmy, legless swimmer, established an endurance record in 1931 when he completed a period of 100 hours in a Honolulu pool—Only twenty-three of the forty-eight States have wagering on horse races that is legalized by two big league ball clubs under A. C. Spalding toured Hawaii, Australia, Ceylon, Italy, France, England, Ireland, as far back as 1888. They played before crowds who stood by and wondered with amazement—"Poons" was the original name for the game now known as badminton, and which is making tremendous strides throughout the world—Only five men in the world have traveled over 200 miles per hour and four of them were killed in trying to step up the record—George Burns battled twice in the world series of 1929 in one inning. He was playing for the Athletics and failed to get a hit both times—The longest world series game went fourteen innings, Boston beating Brooklyn, 3-1, back in 1916.—J.D.

HENRY EDENSHAW

Sir,—The death of Henry Edenshaw, and the article on it in The Province of November 5, bring back memories of the winter we spent on Graham Island and the Christmas Day on which we were the guests of the Haida Indian chief and his wife.

He was one of the first generation of Christian Haidas and, being good material to start with, had built up into his character the best of the white man had to give, instead of the worst—which happens tragically so often, where the trader goes in advance of the priest.

It is hard to write of Edenshaw without dwelling too long on Father Hogan and his wife, but it must suffice to mention that Father Hogan was the missionary at that time at Old Masset, a great six-foot Irishman who looked as though he should have been in the Guards, and whose title was one of affection and not indicative of his form of faith, which was what was called the "low church" type of Anglicanism.

Father Hogan had a choir of men in his little church who used to sing in the choir and two, in their white surplices, like a troop of soldiers, and a fine looking lot they were, few of them much under six feet and with the proud bearing of an unconquered people of splendid physique. The only musical instrument was a small harmonium, but the strong singing of the men—all in Haida—mingled with that of the women and children among the congregation, was like the sound of an organ. Edenshaw read the lessons in Haida, and when Father Hogan preached, he stood by and interpreted in a deep ringing voice. It made one feel that they were people, and we were only foreigners.

On Christmas evening the two Hogans and ourselves—a party of five—went by invitation to dine with the Edenshaws. We were greeted at the door by our host, who took us presently into the dining-room, where we were seated at a long table in the correct order of precedence, my mother and Mrs. Hogan at the right and left hands of the chief, my father and Father Hogan correspondingly next to his wife at the other end, while I was placed near the eldest son. The room was decorated and the table beautifully laid with a white cloth and vases of flowers. Mrs. Edenshaw didn't talk much, as she only knew a few words of English, but she looked very handsome and dignified and listened as though she understood more than she could speak. Edenshaw himself, however, carried the conversation with perfect ease and self-possession, making as well-bred, charming and interesting a host as one could find anywhere.

A few years before, his daughter had married a white man, a young surveyor on the island, and at the wedding breakfast Edenshaw had made a speech, in which he quoted those lines from Tennyson's "Princess" referring to the position of woman in regard to man as the "noble music set to perfect words." A few days later the Hogans asked Edenshaw to spend the evening and we had some music. He had a fine voice, and it was strange to watch him standing beside Mrs. Hogan at the piano, in faultless evening dress, while she played his accompaniments and singing such songs as "Drink to Me Only With Thine Eyes" and "Sally in Our Alley," when one realized that his grandfather, and perhaps even his uncle, had gone on scalping expeditions among the neighboring tribes, who all fled at the cry, "The Haidas are out!"

ECONOMIC THEORIES

Sir,—In The Financial Times (Montreal), November 1, there is an interesting address given by Sir Edward Beatty at Western University. He questions the wisdom of much of the economics taught in the universities. Apparently they are turning out people governed more by their hearts than by their heads. Socialists—in great numbers, I have studied some political economy; in fact, I have passed an examination on this subject. We were taught that all sentiment must be avoided. Let me quote a good definition: "To be sentimentally does not mean to feel strongly, but to allow our words and actions to be governed by feelings and not by reason and fact." In political economy, sentiment seems to quash sound thinking, even common sense. Certain well-meaning persons, with the best intentions possible, of course, have a Utopian vision in their heads. I have studied some logic; in fact, I have passed an examination on this subject. He said that if we did not adopt his views, Communism would result. It

FRENCH RIDER WINS TWO MAJOR PRIZES AT NEW YORK SHOW

NEW YORK, Nov. 11 (P).—Captain Pierre Clave, leader of the French army equestrian team, today held both first and second prizes in the $1,000 International military stake of the national horse show at Madison Square Garden.

Turning back officers of Canada and five other nations last night, Captain Clave sent Danton and Amidon over the twelve jumps of the difficult course with amazing precision. After two jump-offs, the French officer found himself and his mounts holding the choice places.

Clash of Election Battle Hushed to Honor War Dead

Meeting of Two Churchills in Liverpool Riding Gives Rise to Unusual Situation—Various Organizations Battering Candidates With Questionnaires—Some Replies Given

LONDON, Nov. 11 (P).—In many constituencies the clash of election battle was hushed today in tribute to the honored dead. In comparison with forty important meetings tomorrow there were only nine today. Lord Hailsham, at Warrington, and Sir John Simon, in Gateshead and Consett Divisions, were the only Cabinet ministers speaking tonight.

An unusual situation has arisen in the Manchester area. The Methodist Temperance and Social Welfare Council sent questions to more than sixty candidates, asking if they would support legislation for the increased control of the supply of intoxicants.

WANT TAX ABOLISHED
The Provincial Entertainments, Proprietors and Managers Association issued a circular to all candidates requesting support for the total abolition of the entertainments tax.

NO SUGGESTION OF TRUCE
Randolph Churchill replied that four days had elapsed since the announcement was made that his father and Lord Birkenhead would visit the constituency today and address several meetings. Since then he has received no representations from any group of ex-service men or the British Legion that the meetings should be canceled. Nor had he received any suggestion of a truce from his Labor opponent.

Various organizations are battering the candidates with questionnaires. David Lloyd George announces that out of a total of 1,500 candidates to whom the Council for Action sent questionnaires, 352 gave affirmative answers. The Council for Action supported these candidates. The total of 352 comprises twenty National, 150 Liberal and 182 Labor candidates.

Returns to Fleet Street

London has been deprived of so many of its historic features, that the return of the famous St. Dunstan's clock to its old position in Fleet Street was hailed with keen delight by Londoners recently. The clock, more than 300 years old, is associated with the history of London during the reign of Charles II. The old church of St. Dunstan's had escaped the Great Fire, and as an expression of thanksgiving the parishioners erected a handsome clock, the chief characteristics of which were the figures of two men, who struck the "quarters" with poleaxes. In 1829 the clock was purchased by the then Marquess of Hertford. It has now been reinstated. The carved figures have been made to perform once more, and every part of the original structure has been reinstated without change or addition. Our photograph was taken at the unveiling ceremony, which was performed by Cecil Harmsworth.

Services of Remembrance Held at Up-Island Points

DUNCAN, Nov. 11.—Remembrance Day was observed here as usual with a service in the Agricultural Hall and at the War Memorial Cross, which was attended by between two and three thousand people. Returned men, the W.A. to the local legion, Cowichan, Dogwoods and Junior Chapters of the I.O.D.E. Guides, Brownies, Scouts and Cubs were some of the organizations represented.

A massed choir, under the direction of R. E. Macbean, opened the service with an anthem. After the two-minute silence, "O Canada" was sung. A Scripture reading given by Rev. P. Jamieson; a hymn, "O God, Our Help in Ages Past"; memorial prayers by Rev. W. F. Burns; hymn, "The Supreme Sacrifice," and the dedication of the Legion colors by Rev. A. Bischoff made up the service in the hall.

At the Memorial Cross, wreaths were placed in memory of fallen heroes, Piper J. Low played the lament, "Flowers of the Forest," the Lord's Prayer, Last Post, Benediction and Reveille sounded and "God Save the King" was sung. Local companies of the Canadian Scottish and the 62nd Field Battery paraded.

AT LADYSMITH
LADYSMITH, Nov. 11.—An impressive Remembrance Day ceremony was observed here today, when several hundred citizens gathered around the War Memorial on First Avenue. A joint committee of the Army and Navy Veterans and the City Council was in charge of the arrangements. In some respects, the observance departed from the routine of former years, in that the service guard of honor were in uniform, without ribbons and medals, and displaying a poppy each. The firebell tolled the striking of the hour of eleven, and only its slow plaintive measure marked the two-minute silence in the city.

Mayor Walkem opened the formalities, and drew attention to the poignancy of the day and the significance of the annual commemoration of the cessation of hostilities in the greatest war of history.

SOUNDS A WARNING
Hugh Savage, M.P.P., recounting the terrible sacrifice of life during the Great War, reminded his hearers that the elements of conflict were still dominant in the world today—fear and greed. Two years ago, on a similar occasion, he had sounded a message of hope, but now he was giving a warning. Fear and greed were rampant in the life of the individual, as in the activities of the nations, and the world today was menaced by lethal machine guns and death from the air, as a result of this spirit. He appealed to his hearers to realize the message of the hour, to reach a common understanding by purging hearts of fear and greed and by acknowledging the sovereignty of the Prince of Peace.

J. S. Taylor, M.P.-elect, briefly and eloquently, said the note of the moment had already sounded in Revelations, in the passage that said "there was silence in Heaven for the space of a half-hour." The accumulated minutes of the silences observed since Armistice amongst the nations had consummated the letter of that revelation. Peace and freedom had been maintained throughout the British Empire of nations, and the setting aside of this brief period to publicly honor the fallen each year, kept alive the desire and the spirit of peace, and the hope that the fallen had not died in vain.

The Ladysmith-South Wellington Band led the parade of veterans and Boy Scouts, and led the musical arrangements of the hymns and the National Anthem.

Rev. C. McDiarmid, B.A., delivered a prayer and the Scripture lesson, "He Leadeth Me by the Quiet Waters." Rev. B. Eytan Spurling led a prayer and pronounced the Benediction. J. Miller, Jr., was trumpeter, sounding Last Post and Reveille. Constable T. Byatt was parade marshal. Numerous wreaths were placed around the War Memorial, from local service and fraternal organizations, and from the city of Ladysmith.

AT QUALICUM
QUALICUM BEACH, Nov. 11.—There was a crowded congregation present at the annual service of remembrance held in the Qualicum Beach United Church on Sunday. Large numbers of representatives of the local branch of the Canadian Legion attended in a body. The Young People's choir sang and Mrs. E. Sanders presided at the organ. E. Sanders read out the Roll Call and also sang as solo, "In Flanders Fields." A very appropriate sermon was delivered by Rev. C. A. Petrie, emphasizing the spirit of sacrifice in the days of the war, and the need of that spirit in the life of the world today.

Foot binding is still practised in China, although it is now against the law, and fashions in it differ according to localities.

ETHIOPIA TALK IS GIVEN HERE

General Sir Charles Delme-Radcliffe Tells of His Experiences

Talk of defecting waters of the Blue Nile in Ethiopia is exaggerated, and the idea is being used for political purposes, General Sir Charles Delme-Radcliffe told an audience at St. Mark's Hall, Bole-skie Road, last evening, in recounting some of his experiences in Africa. He illustrated his remarks with a large map of Northeastern Africa.

Sir Charles told how fish, weighing up to 500 pounds, had been caught in waters of the White Nile and Blue Nile. Nile perch, he said, had no teeth, but bone jaws capable of easily crushing a trotting spoon. They jumped as high as ten feet in the air when hooked, and were hard to tire out. He added that fishing was often hazardous when crocodiles attempted to overturn a boat.

TRAFFIC IN SLAVES
Dealing with slave traffic, the speaker related how hundreds of slaves formerly were packed into a small dhow and transported across the Red Sea by Ethiopian tribesmen. When they ran into a storm, or when a patrol boat appeared upon the horizon, it was common practice to throw the slaves to the sharks.

Domestic slavery, he recounted, was not so cruel, although he believed it was still the custom to knock a slave upon the head when he became too old to work. He was sure that slavery would be abolished before many years.

Going back to 1862, Sir Charles told how a British mission was established, but the consul was waylaid upon his way to the coast and murdered. Emperor Theodore conceived a desire for power and raised an army of 100,000 men. His next move was to imprison the British consul, Captain Cameron, and two priests.

England finally sent 18,000 troops from India, under Lord Napier, and several Ethiopian cities were stormed and taken. Shorn of his power, Theodore committed suicide and his son was sent to England to be educated.

DEFEAT REMEMBERED
Italy had ranked for years after her defeat in Ethiopia, and the unsatisfactory peace terms she was compelled to make, Sir Charles declared. The Italian population was increasing at the rate of 400,000 each year, and with emigration to North and South America cut off, the nation for some time had cast longing eyes on the fertile highlands of Ethiopia.

"Mussolini is a great man, but I deplore the present situation and the strained relations with England," Sir Charles stated. "It is beyond my powers to prophesy what will happen," he concluded.

Rev. O. L. Jull, rector of St. Mark's Church, tendered a hearty vote of thanks to the speaker.

SAYS FLYING NOW. THREE TIMES SAFER THAN TEN YEARS AGO

WASHINGTON, Nov. 11 (P).—Notwithstanding the recent series of fatal airplane crashes, Senate commerce subcommittee investigators have concluded after a thorough survey that travel by air today is "three times safer than ten years ago."

Carl Dolan, chief investigator of accidents and Federal aviation administrator for the subcommittee, which is seeking the basis for new United States legislation to improve safety in the air, said this record was achieved despite speed that permitted coast to coast flying in one fourth of the sixty hours required in 1921.

ROME, Nov. 11 (CP-Havva).—War-time discipline was established tonight in Libya, where thousands of Italian troops and war supplies have been concentrated. A decree announcing that this move had been taken under a law of December 14, 1931, was published in the official gazette.

ISLAND ARBUTUS REACHES LONDON

Native Tree From Victoria Will Be Planted Beside Captain George Vancouver's Grave

The arbutus tree sent from here last summer is now thriving in the Royal Botanical Gardens at London, according to a letter received by the Tourist Trade Development Association from W. A. Mc-Adam, acting agent-general for British Columbia at London.
C. C. Pemberton, chairman of the Tourist Trade Development Association, arranged to have the tree sent to England to be planted beside Captain George Vancouver's grave at Peterhead. This will be done on the anniversary of the captain's birth next year.
Mr. McAdam, in his letter, paid tribute to the kindly services of the British Ministry of Agriculture, London customs authorities and the Canadian Pacific Express Company.

Duke of York Acts For His Majesty at Whitehall Service

Vast Throng Attends Memorial Services in London
—Thousands Sell Poppies to Aid Veterans—
Prince of Wales at Edinburgh

LONDON, Nov. 11 (P)—Early morning mists from the Thames which enshrouded Whitehall slowly began to disperse as thousands of people quietly gathered around the Cenotaph. It was just seventeen years since the smoke of battle lifted from a war-torn world.

Observers noted that more than ever the throng in Whitehall today meeting within a stone's throw of Downing Street, seemed to realize the solemnity of the occasion in view of the tense international situation.
Mindful of the inclement weather which caused the King's grave illness after Armistice Day seven years ago, advisers prevailed upon him to remain at Buckingham Palace. An official statement referred to the "weather uncertainties" which threatened the ceremonies at the Cenotaph today.

PRINCES TAKE PART

The Prince of Wales was in Edinburgh, where he joined in the Scottish capital's tribute to the Great War dead. In London, his brother, the Duke of York, in naval uniform, acted as the Sovereign's representative, the Duke of Kent accompanying him at the base of the memorial.
The Queen, with the Duchess of York and other royal ladies, watched the proceedings from the upper windows of the Home Office.

G. Howard Ferguson, former high commissioner for Canada, laid the Dominion's wreath on the Cenotaph at the request of Prime Minister Mackenzie King, immediately following the royal tributes. Colonel G. P. Vanier, secretary of the high commissioner, was also present on behalf of Canada.

The new Lord Mayor of London, Sir Percy Vincent, with the sheriffs and other high civic officials, attended a service at the Royal Exchange.

LEGION'S FESTIVAL

The Duke and Duchess of York were present tonight at the British Legion's Festival of Remembrance in the Albert Hall, attended by 10-000 veterans. As the concluding and traditional feature, more than 1,000 poppies—the number of the Empire's war dead—drifted down from the ceiling.

Before 7 a.m. today, 300,000 poppy-seeds were on duty throughout the United Kingdom, hoping to dispose of 40,000,000 by nightfall. That amount would represent $250,000 for the aid of veterans.

A Dutch air-liner had just landed at Croydon when the Maroons signalled the opening of the great silence. The engines were quickly stopped and the passengers and crew stood to attention beside the machine. Alongside them stood German mechanics who had been preparing for a flight to Berlin.

SHUT OFF ENGINES

Imperial Airways liners high in the sky when the engines were shut off.

Between Canada and the United States a neighborhood of genuine friendship which for over a century has dispelled every passing rift.

"Our two peoples, each independent in themselves, are closely knit by ties of blood and a common heritage; our standards of life are substantially the same; our commerce and our economic conditions rest upon the same foundations.
Between two such peoples, if we would build constructively for peace and progress, the flow of intercourse should be mutually beneficial and no unduly hampered. Each has much to gain by material profit and by increased employment through the means of enlarged trade, one with the other."

DEFINITE AGREEMENT

"I am, therefore, happy to be able to tell you, on Armistice Day that the Canadian Prime Minister and I, after thoughtful discussion of our national problems, have reached a definite agreement which will eliminate disagreements and unreasonable restrictions, and thus work to the advantage of both Canada and the United States."

"The power of good example is the strongest force in the world. It surpasses precepts; it excels good resolutions; it is better than agreements unfulfilled."

If we as a nation, by our good example, can contribute to the peaceful well-being of the fellowship of nations, our course through the years will not have been in vain."

REPRESENTS KING

OTTAWA, Nov. 11 (P)—Before signing the reciprocal trade agreement between Canada and United States, Prime Minister King will be required to obtain from King George the necessary permission to act for the occasion as His Majesty's plenipotentiary. Treaties made between states are signed by the heads of the states or their plenipotentiaries.
In spite of the high degree of independent nationhood attained by the Dominion of Canada, the King is still head of the state. The formality of obtaining His Majesty's appointment of the Prime Minister to act as his plenipotentiary in this instance will be carried out.

LUMBERMEN ANXIOUS

SEATTLE, Nov. 11 (P)—Spokesmen for Washington's lumber interests displayed anxiety today over the new trade agreement between the United States and Canada and voiced opposition to any changes in the existing tariff protection of the industry.
Colonel W. B. Greeley, secretary-treasurer of the West Coast Lumbermen's Association, said members were awaiting details with keen interest, not knowing whether lumber is to be affected.
The association, from the opening of negotiations, urged that no changes be made in existing duties on Canada's exportable surpluses, Greeley said.

"SEVERE CRISIS"

United States Senator Lewis B.

the skyways shut off their engines and glided for several miles during the silence.

At a special service in Westminster Abbey there were representatives of many national and imperial organizations, who afterwards filed past the tomb of the unknown warrior. In Westminster Cathedral were held a Caputur High Mass and a Requiem Mass.

Throughout the United Kingdom today similar services were attended by large and reverent crowds.

SERVICES IN EUROPE

In Paris, the stern "Death's Head" legions of the Nationalistic Croix de Feu paraded to the tomb of France's unknown soldier at the Arc de Triomphe, then broke ranks to stage a street battle with Leftist veterans.
President Lebrun officially reviewed France's armed forces at the Arc de Triomphe.

upon the tomb of France's unknown dead a white wreath . . . from Germany's unknown soldier."

In Rome, the occasion of King Victor Emmanuel's sixty-sixth birthday was observed by a brilliant military display as Fascist troops in far-off Ethiopia pressed ahead in their colonial campaign. Italy celebrated her own armistice a week ago, for fighting between Italy and Austria stopped on November 4, 1918.

Premier Mussolini told Italians and the world that Italy's armies were ready to defend her "interests in Europe, Africa or anywhere."

IN THE UNITED STATES

President Roosevelt, before the tomb of the United States' unknown soldier, said the nation "will ever seek the ways of peace," but "must and will protect herself."

New York's noisy traffic was stilled momentarily and the Canadian Club commemorated the occasion with a special luncheon, at which Archdeacon Colonel J. M. Almond, of Montreal, urged that the English-speaking peoples unite to prevent war in the future.

British fleet units formed a guard of honor for ceremonies honoring the Egyptian war dead at Alexandria. Italy's consul took part in the ceremony.

Relays of Belgian and French citizens were bearing torches between Brussels and Paris in token of Franco-Belgian friendship on the Armistice anniversary.

Jugoslavia, where Armistice Day is called "Anglo-American Day" in recognition of services rendered Jugoslavia by Britain and the United States, held nation-wide services.

Schwellenbach said he had informed the President the industry would be confronted with a "severe crisis" if the existing set-up is not altered.

With prosperity in the state dependent upon the lumber business, any changes would "result, disastrously," Schwellenbach said.

"The average wage now being paid by the lumber industry in this state is 62.6 cents an hour, compared with not more than forty-five cents in British Columbia," he said in his message. "While the Washington industry has adjusted itself to a forty-hour week, British Columbia retains the forty-eight-hour week."

EXPRESSSES ALARM

WASHINGTON, Nov. 11 (P)—Belief that Canada has been granted concession of lumber and shingle duties under the reciprocal trade agreement announced by President Roosevelt was expressed tonight by Rep. M. C. Wallgren, Everett, Wash.
Democrat.

The representative said that while he had obtained no positive information concerning the agreement, he had "received enough information to make me believe that the lumber and shingle industries will be pessimistic concerning the agreement."

Wallgren predicted that the present $3 per thousand feet excise tax on lumber would be cut by 50 per cent.

THINKS PROTESTS IN VAIN

"I am confident," Wallgren said,
"that there are no restrictions on the importation of Canadian shingles or lumber in the document. I do not believe the hundreds of protests from Pacific Northwest industries have gained any consideration for the forest products industries in this agreement."

The representative came to Washington about two weeks ago in an effort to gain protection for the shingle industry in the past. He attempted to see the President today, but because of the Armistice Day activities and other matters he presented his case orally to Marvin McIntyre, White House secretary, and sent a brief on the subject to Mr. Roosevelt's desk. Wallgren departed tonight for Everett.

WASHINGTON STATE IS FORTY-SIX YEARS OLD

SEATTLE, Nov. 11 (P)—Washington State became forty-six years old today.

A flourish of a pen in the hand of President Benjamin Harrison was the official act that admitted Washington into the Union.

PROTEST ENTERED AGAINST SANCTIONS

the Egyptian Government because of its adherence to sanctions. Egypt is not a member of the League.

CONTINUATION OF POLICY

Informed circles regarded the protest as a continuation of Italy's policy of accepting sanctions "with sacrifices and discipline," but at the same time contesting their legality.

It Duce, speaking to massed thousands from the balcony of his palace today, after the huge parade, asserted:

"The forces you have seen this morning with all their weapons and especially their spirit are ready to defend Italy's interests in Europe, Africa or anywhere," he shouted.

"In only one month we have settled two accounts. (Apparently he referred to victories at Adduwa and Makale in Northern Ethiopia). The remainder we will settle later."

This was taken to imply that the war in Ethiopia would go on.

OBJECTIVE OF ARMIES

ROME, Nov. 11 (P)—Ethiopia's main railway, connecting Addis Ababa with the sea, appeared tonight to be the destination of both the Italian northern and southern armies.

Press dispatches from Africa said General Rodolfo Graziani's southern force, after strengthening its position at Gorrabel, had pressed farther on to Daggah Bur, thirty miles northwest of Sasa Baneh and only a little over 150 miles from the railway between the capital and Djibouti, French Somaliland. These reports said the troops already had taken Sasa Baneh after their success at Gorrabel.

CAPTURE DENIED

(The Ethiopian Government at Addis Ababa denied the capture of Sasa Baneh and the Italian advance to Daggah Bur.)

In the North, the Italian forces occupied all the heights south of Makale, Friday, it was stated in a report from General Emilio de Bono, Italian commander-in-chief.
General de Bono said his soldiers commanded the vicinity of Selcoit, south of Makale, on the road to Amba Alagi, their next objective.

General de Bono announced the capture of many prisoners, including some Ethiopian chiefs. He also said Abdel Kerim Mohammed, son of the late Abdullah Mohammed (Mad Mullah), had joined the Italians, with his army, at Gorrabel.

NOT ASSASSINATED

(Reports published abroad that Ras Nasibu, Ethiopian chieftain, had been assassinated during a mutiny among his soldiers in the South were dismissed by the Ethiopian Government.)

Loss of Sleep Due to Inability to Relax

Fears and worries are bad bed fellows.
They sap the nervous system of the vital nerve force.

They make it impossible to relax,
And sleep does not come without relaxation.
Persistent loss of sleep is fatal
To both mind and body.

Ten days without sleep is the longest on record.
Health and beauty are destroyed by sleepless nights.

The use of narcotics to produce sleep
Only further exhausts the nervous system.
Lasting relief comes
With the restoration of nerve force to the body.

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food is recommended
Because it restores the richness of the blood,
And nourishes the nerves back to health.
A few days use of this restorative treatment
Will convince you of its merits.

Provincial Legislatures Given Limited Autonomy

Dr. Olga Jardine Reviews British North America Act in Relation to Powers Conferred on Provinces—Miss Clay Speaks on Library

Arising from the discussion of a new deal for British Columbia, the study by the Local Council of Women of the British North America Act was carried to a second session yesterday when Dr. Olga Jardine gave a comprehensive and most able review of the powers conferred on the Province by this act.

Of special interest was that part devoted to the exclusive powers of Provincial Legislatures. Provinces might make laws in relation to amendments to the constitution of the province, except as regarded the office of Lieutenant-Governor; direct taxation within the province to raise revenue for provincial purposes; borrowing of money on sole credit of the province; establishment of the tenure of provincial offices and appointment and payment of officers; management and sale of public lands belonging to the province and of the timber thereon; management of public and reformatory prisons in and for the province; establishment, maintenance and management of hospitals, charities and asylums in and for the province—other than the marine hospitals; municipal institutions in the province; shop, saloon, tavern, auctioneer and other licenses for the raising of revenue for local municipal and provincial purposes, and incorporation of companies.

OTHER POWERS
Solemnization of marriage; property and civil rights; administration of justice in the province, including the constitution, maintenance and organization of provincial courts, and the imposition of punishment by fine, penalty or imprisonment for enforcing any law of the province made in relation to any of the aforementioned subjects, were also under exclusive provincial control.

It was specially noted that provinces had exclusive control of their laws in relation to education, but the rights in respect of denominational schools were safeguarded.

Miss Margaret Clay, city librarian, in connection with the Anniversary Commemoration so widely celebrated this year, the hundredth anniversary of his birth, spoke of some of the wonderful library facilities which had been placed at the disposal of people the world over as the result of his endowments.

LIBRARY BENEFITS
British Columbia was shown to have benefited generously, and Victoria's share in this benefit was a service which, with a book circulation of 38,000 books per library staff member, cost the taxpayer less than four-fifths of a mill on their taxes.

Miss Clay's statement was received with thanks, expressed in a resolution moved by Mrs. D. L. MacLaurin, seconded by Dr. Jardine. This also expressed deep appreciation "not only of Miss Clay's address, but also of the efficient service rendered to the city by the Victoria Public Library," and further urged "that less emphasis be placed on economy in the library administration in view of the paramount importance of the library staff and equipment as factors in adult education."

Mrs. C. C. Spofford presided.

Charming Poetry Is Published

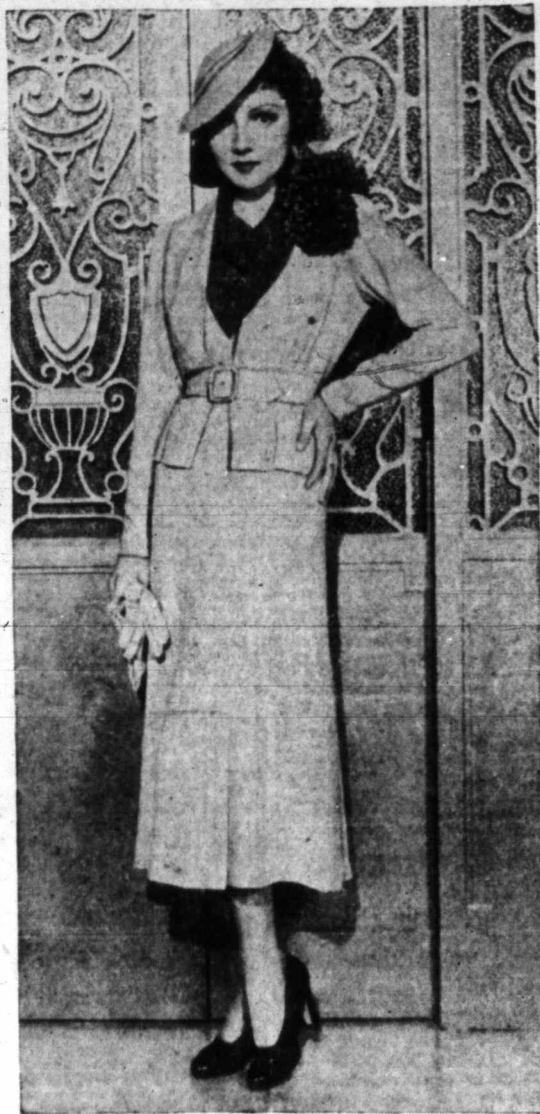

While experimentation in the technique of poetry, as in all the arts, interests the student, the man in the street in most cases enjoys poetry chiefly for its music and its sentiment.

These two qualities are paramount in the poetry of Frances Ebbas-Canavan, a Victorian author whose pen has given many charming things to contemporary Canadian literature, and some of the best examples of whose verse have been assembled in an attractively-bound chap-book just issued by the Ryerson Press of Toronto.

Above all else, Mrs. Ebbas-Canavan is a singer. No matter what her theme, in each and all of these twenty-two poems gathered in this chap-book the musical rhythm is unfailingly right. At the same time, it moves perfectly with the expression of the sentiment, so that cadence and thought are one. This will make the little volume a favorite with those who delight in poetry of unpretentious beauty.

In the realm of pure song are "At Turn of the Tide," "Waiting," "October Madrigal," "Incomplete," "Love of flowers is expressed in "The Garden" and "Japonica," and a feeling for the seasons of the year in "Spring Cleaning" and "Secrets of October." Like most of the singing poets, Mrs. Ebbas-Canavan delights in fairies, and they haunt

MISS CLAUDETTE COLBERT

Studios to Give Joint Programme

The British Columbia Federation of Music Teachers, Victoria branch, has drawn not a little attention to its serious objectives and its sense of duty to the advancement of music by arranging to give a joint pupils' recital this evening at the First Baptist Church.

This is the first occasion on which the members of the organization have come together in an enterprise of this kind. The programme will commence at 8:15. Eighteen or nineteen teachers will be represented, but individual performances will be limited to five minutes for each student taking part.

THE PROGRAMME

The programme is as follows: Strings—(a) Theme song, "Air" (Henry Purcell); (b) "Spring Tide," miniature overture; George J. Dyke String Orchestra.

Piano—"Valse" (G. Shaw); "Sam-oan Dance" (W. Carrol); Isabel MacKenzie.

Rhythm Band—"Soldiers' March" (Schumann); "Andante" (Haydn); Hilda Kyle, conductor; Margaret Norris, pianist.

Piano—"Elfin Dance" (Jensen); Janet Hodson.

Recitation—"My Umbrella," "The Hole in the Curtain"; Barbara Oakley.

Piano Trio—"Air de Chasse" (Gurilt); John Swainson, Frank Moore and Harmon Crosby.

Piano—"Mazurka in G Minor" (Chopin); Audrey Mills.

Violin Duet—"Salut d'Amour" (Elgar); Tom Johnston and Douglas Dicker.

Piano—"Echo" from "Suite in B Minor" (Bach); Denise Mara.

BACK TO THE SAMPLER

A new craze among women is to do one's autobiography in needlework. This is really a return to the sampler. Only the modern version tells family histories, episodes being selected from the stories of great families. Artists work out the designs for these samplers.

Another facet of the autobiographical vogue is to make a needlework picture of one's own house and garden. First one's home must be photographed. Then the color scheme of flower beds and walls is decided, and an artist is employed to work out the design. Many of these completed samplers will be seen next year at an exhibition of contemporary British and French needlework.

Qualicum Beach L.A.

A successful and enjoyable afternoon was spent Saturday, when the Ladies' Aid to the Qualicum United Church held its annual sale of work. The sale was opened by the pastor, Rev. J. A. Petrie. The needlework and fancywork stall was filled with attractive work and novelties, Mrs. Craig Reid and Mrs. D. Daigle being in charge. A well-filled home cooking stall, with a splendid assortment of dainty cakes, was supervised by Mrs. A. P. Smith and Mrs. E. Bunting. Misses Betty Daigle, Margaret Smith and Doreen Gibson had a candy and novelty stall. Assisting with the tea were Mrs. J. Dobbin, Mrs. C. G. Golding, Mrs. J. Parker, Mrs. S. Cunningham, Mrs. E. Stewart and Mrs. J. Jack. The result of the sale was most satisfactory.

Play Writers Are Busy in Budapest

BUDAPEST, Nov. 11.—The last year has been so unusually productive of aspirants to literary fame that the National Theatre has for this season received 166 new plays. With the manuscripts left over from last season, plays awaiting the directors' decision total over 400.

One of the new productions will be the story of two great Hungarian mathematicians, "The Two Bolzais," the work of Jeno Miklos, the author and poet who died last year. Among foreign plays to be given by the National Theatre are works by Paul Gerdard, Jules Romaine, Eugene O'Neill and Rattl. The theatre has acquired 2,000 new members this season.

New stars are plentiful on the Hungarian stage and it is likely the season may establish Emma Bulla, already called "The Hungarian Duse," as the leading dramatic actress. She is appearing in a new play, "Mutiny," by Fodor, and will later star in Shaw's "St. Joan."

Singer Breathes Off Much Weight

HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 11 (AP).—A Hollywood controversy that had almost reached the big money betting stage came to an abrupt end today when Marion Talley, glamorous Kansas City opera star, disclosed, for the first time, exactly how much weight she lost when she entered the movies.

"It was twenty-six pounds," she said. And her conditioner, Louise Long, Beverly Hills masseuse, produced the singer's weight charts to substantiate the statement. They showed Miss Talley was tipping the beam at 131, at the peak, and now weighs a fraction under 105.

Miss Long said the singer, at first, had a daily treatment, consisting of exercises, skin-kneading and deep-breathing routines. The conditioner believes in her self-invented system of "dynamic breathing" as a means of reducing. She said Miss Talley "breathed off" a lot of weight.

Hollywood Fancies Grey for Autumn

By MOLLY MERRICK

(Copyright, 1935, by The North American Newspaper Alliance, Inc.)

HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 11.—The dress to wear under a fur coat is the problem of the moment. A problem, by the way, which Claudette Colbert has very effectively solved for herself.

Miss Colbert wears a frock of velveteen, a sheer fabric which is full yet carries the soft sheen of velvet, developed in a lovely grey—a grey with all the subtle tones of platinum, yet with a darker thread of crimson, which gives it substance and a correct autumnal tone.

Simply cut, this little suitlet is chic to a degree at luncheon, for cocktails or for informal movie-viewing at night. It is not too bulky to wear under the topcoat of kimmer which is so beautiful with the Colbert brunette type. Its tones blend beautifully with the platinum and blue-greys of the fur.

Miss Colbert's tiny hat—half-ahat, if you please—is of duobonnet suede felt. So are the shoes. The scarf is in this lovely new shade of red and the shaggy carnations are all in this delightful tone.

Duobonnet and grey form one of the new autumnal color combinations that have swept this colony.

WOULD ADVISE MORE DRASTIC PUNISHMENTS

Local Council of Women Considers Penalties for Traffic Offenders

LEAGUE OF NATIONS NEED WOMEN'S HELP

The creation of a "danger-car" color, with which every motor traffic offender's automobile would be painted so that other persons could avoid it; and the impounding of the objectionable car were two of the suggestions for more drastic punishments offered during a discussion on the subject of motor-speed offences held at the meeting of the Local Council of Women yesterday afternoon.

The matter was introduced in the report submitted to the council by Mrs. D. L. MacLaurin, convener of a special committee recently appointed to go into the whole matter of regulation of motor traffic. The council's interest was the direct outgrowth of the article entitled, "Sudden Death," which has received wide publicity within the last two or three months, largely through the agency of automobile associations and commercial firms. Mrs. MacLaurin's report is to be used as the basis of a more exhaustive discussion at the annual meeting to be held in February.

The report placed first emphasis on the value of education. The importance of properly-enforced legislation came a close second. In her search for information, Mrs. MacLaurin had interviewed Inspector Hood and T. J. Goodlake, of the Automobile Club of Victoria, and made a thorough review of the Motor Vehicle Act.

"This act, with slight changes, would seem, if strictly enforced, to supply almost all that is needed," the report stated. Among the recommendations were the following:

That applicants for motor drivers' licence should have to show an oculist's certificate as to condition of eyesight; also certificate regarding physical fitness; that suspension or cancellation of licence would have better effect than mere fine; that drivers guilty of a first offence in connection with a motor traffic regulation should have governors attached to their engines, controlling the speed at which they could travel. Further, it was suggested that in case of accident, the driver at fault should have to prove that he was not under the influence of liquor.

"Three ounces of liquor doesn't make a man socially intoxicated, but affects his quickness in responding," it was maintained.

In connection with the proposed educational campaign, it was thought a "Motor Vehicle Safety Week" might be instituted, to take place early in 1936, during which short talks, the display of posters, and publicity through the public schools might take place. A copy of "Sudden Death" and an article and diagram on the scientific control of speed and traffic should be issued with every licence. Auto clubs should be asked to reprint "Sudden Death."

LEAGUE OF NATIONS

"We women of Canada have a mission—the development of national spirit. Sometimes we are inclined to be too Canadianism. We should have a real Canadian feeling and imbue our children with it, for we cannot have an international spirit until we have developed a national one," said Mrs. Alan Campbell, convener of the League of Nations committee of the Local Council, in her report.

In stressing the desirability of increasing the League of Nations Society membership, Mrs. Campbell spoke of the terrible toll of war, and asked how much nearer the world was today to the ideal of the end of all war. The idea had gained headway with the individual, but how far had governments progressed?

Speaking to the question, Mrs. MacLaurin referred with indignation to the address given in Meany Hall, Seattle, yesterday. This, she said, was with all the old propaganda inciting to war.

The council passed a standing tribute to the memory of the late Mrs. Cecilia Sylvester. Correspondence included a letter from Mrs. L. S. Aiken, of the James Bay Parent-Teacher Association, endorsing the council's resolution favoring the establishment of an employment registration bureau for high school and college students.

Requests from the Women's Auxiliary of the C.C.F. and the Victoria branch of the League of Nations for affiliation in the council were granted.

FASHION NOTE

VELVET JACKETS

The velvet jacket is very useful for the woman who must economize in her clothes this winter. In particular the tunic-length velvet jacket with flared collar, silhouette or the swaggy hip-length jacket with pleat in the centre-back may complete a velvet suit, or be worn over another skirt or afternoon frock or even an ankle-length dinner dress.

A popular trimming for woollen dresses are tiny wooden beads in the same color as the frock. They may outline a yoke, form small collars or cravats or be studied in all-over patterns on bodices.

Baby Christened

St. Mary's Church, Oak Bay, was the scene of a christening service on Sunday afternoon, when Rev. Canon Nuuns baptized the infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Leslie P. Bradley. The baby received the names Hugh Victor, and wore an exquisite embroidered robe, the handwork of his maternal grandmother, Mrs. Parmiter, of several generations. The godparents were Mrs. O. M. Prentice, Mr. Hugh J. Parmiter, and Mr. L. P. Bradley. After the service, a small reception was held at the new home of Mr. and Mrs. Bradley, on Hampshire Road.

Leaves for Kelowna

Mr. Hugh J. Parmiter, who has been spending his vacation with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Parmiter, left yesterday for Kelowna, where he has been transferred to the staff of the Bank of Montreal after three years' service with the Bank of Montreal branch at Mayo, Yukon Territory. Among his farewell presentations was a hand-somely fitted dressing case from the vestry and parishioners of St. Mary's Church at Mayo, where he served as warden and on various church organizations.

Tea Hostess

Mrs. Fred Daniels, 36 Government Street, entertained at a delightful tea on Friday afternoon, in honor of Mrs. J. Gordon who, with her husband, are making their home in Victoria. The tea table was decorated with pink chrysanthemums and matching candles. The invited guests were Mrs. J. Gordon, Mrs. E. Hall, Mrs. M. Raynard, Mrs. A. Pinkerton, Mrs. S. Child, Mrs. H. Porter, Mrs. S. Saunders and Miss P. O'Sullivan.

TODAY'S RECIPE

PINEAPPLE Torte.—Two tablespoons butter, melted, ½ teaspoon cinnamon, 2 cups graham cracker crumbs, 3 eggs, separated, 1½ cups (1 can) sweetened condensed milk, 2 tablespoons lemon juice, grated rind of 1 lemon. 1 cup canned crushed pineapple, drained. Add butter and cinnamon to graham cracker crumbs. Spread thick layer of crumbs on the bottom of buttered spring mold or deep 10-inch layer cake pan. Beat egg yolks well, add sweetened condensed milk, lemon juice, rind and pineapple. Fold in stiffly beaten egg whites. Pour into mold. Cover with remaining cracker crumbs. Bake in moderate oven (350 deg. Fahr.) about fifty minutes. Serve hot or cold. Note—If cake is to be served cold, leave cake in oven until oven is thoroughly cool.

FIRE DESTROYS CHURCH HALL

Duncan Building Used for Various Community Activities Is Total Loss

DUNCAN, Nov. 11.—Fire destroyed the United Church Hall adjoining the church here on Sunday morning, believed to have been caused from an over-heated pipe, when the hall was being warmed for Sunday school.

The alarm was sounded at about 10:15. Flames were breaking through the roof and only smart work on the part of the Duncan Volunteer Department prevented the disaster from being much more serious. The hall building, a wooden structure, was wedged between the church and a garage owned by S. Redgrave. The garage was badly scorched but all its contents were removed to safety. The church hall was completely gutted. It was used for many church activities besides Sunday school. The Y.P.A. badminton team

A farmer was sitting outside his house trying a finger exercise which he had been told would drive rheumatism from his ancient digits. A passer-by approached him.

Noticing the old man's gesticulations, the stranger concluded that he was a deaf mute. Drawing a piece of paper from his pocket, he wrote: "I want a quart of milk."

The farmer read it and got the milk.

"How much?" wrote the stranger. The farmer held up six fingers. The man handed him sixpence and as he started down the path heard the farmer call to his wife: "Mary, I've just sold a quart of that sour milk to a dummy."

MARIE BLIZARD

On her twenty-fourth birthday Carol Kennedy, coming into a vast fortune, suddenly announces to her relatives that she is giving up her old home in Connecticut, where she has lived as an orphan, to move to New York to find happiness and freedom. Cousin Kathy and her fiancé, W. Owen Gray, have been the first to desert from the "stuffy" birthday dinner for something sayer.

CHAPTER II

"Don't look so glum, Owen. It was a ghastly business sitting through that family dinner but it'll be gay at Adele's." Kathy reached for her fiancé's hand in the dim recess of the taxi.

"It wasn't the dinner, dear, it's the gaiety at the next party I'm worried about; I'm operating in the morning." He stifled a tired sigh.

"Darling, please forget about that," she wheedled. "We must go to parties. Isn't that where you meet most of the people who become your patients?"

"Not exactly." He looked tenderly at Kathy. She loved parties and he loved her. Undoubtedly when they were married Kathy would change. A tiny cloud of doubt rose in his mind and his arm tightened about her.

"Do parties mean so much to you, Kathy?"

"Practically everything, Owen. And some day I'm going to give the most wonderful parties in New York. I'll have the whole Social Register clamoring to get to my parties and then to be your patients." She looked at him for his approval.

"I can promise you one thing, we won't have to attend many dinners like that one tonight. Really, they're only held on family birthdays."

"That's quite all right. It was a noble dinner," Owen thought of the pheasant and Napoleon brandy.

Kathy shivered in her ermine wrap. It takes more than old wine to break through that family. They had poor old Carol on the spot. Jolly birthday party for her."

"I felt a little sorry for her," he said thoughtfully.

"I do, too, darling, but why? Carol has no more spirit than a jellyfish and she has oodles of money. If she can't get out from under, that's her fault. Heaven only knows I've done everything I could for her."

"Have you, Kathy?"

Sharpness lent an edge to her answer: "Certainly I have. What did you expect me to have done?"

"I wasn't reflecting on anything you might do, darling. I merely thought that there is so much life and gaiety about you that Carol would be fortunate to bask in its reflection."

Kathy was suspicious that Owen had turned a deeper thought into a compliment.

"Carol and I have always been different. She was a good little girl and her face was never dirty and she never 'sassed her maw.' She grew up the same way."

"What was her mother like, Kathy?" Owen was interested.

"There you go, being psychological again," Kathy sighed and continued. "Her father died when Carol was ten and her mother promptly became a nervous wreck. They had nurse after nurse and traveled all over the world but it was Carol who did the nursing."

"It was 'where's mother's rug' and 'read to mother' and 'fetch mother this and that' for all the rest of the years."

"You know that sort of life isn't likely to foster any kick-back spirit. Did she miss her mother very much?"

"Oh, properly enough. Honestly, Owen, I did my best but she simply turned down all my invitations politely and firmly. I don't think she likes things like that."

"I don't think that's likely. I think someone should take her in hand and find a few interests for her."

Kathy's voice was hard: "Are you planning to do that, Owen?"

"No, my dear, I expect you'll be as much as I can handle."

Mollified, she answered, "I will be a handful but it's because I think you can handle me that I'm going to marry you."

"Is that the only reason?" He laid his cheek beside her own soft one.

She drew away a little and her words came slowly: "No, of course not, dear. I... I suppose I love you."

"You suppose so? Don't you know?"

"Don't be silly, darling," she laughed. "Kathy," he said after a silence. "Have you ever met anyone else like that?"

She did not answer immediately. Their taxi was turning into Park Avenue. Owen would ask her that question as they passed the apartment where Gary Crandall lived!

Unconsciously she turned a little to see if the windows were lighted before she answered him.

"Of course, there isn't anyone else I'm going to marry you, aren't I?"

"When, little Kathy?"

"Soon, darling, when the season are giving their party."

"Oh, those." He dismissed them. "One marks a lady's birthday... the pearls were beautiful. You shall have beautiful pearls, Kathy."

With her thumb she touched the square cut emerald on her engagement finger. Her mind flew to the little diamond pin Gary had given her. She dare not wear it. It wasn't that she loved Gary. She found him exciting—and important. Oh, dear! What was she to do?

She shivered slightly. "Cold dear?" Tenderly he drew her wrap over her knees.

Their taxi was drawing up before the brightly lighted foyer of the apartment where the Meachams were giving their party.

"Do Parties Mean So Much to You, Kathy?"

is over and in the meantime I'll have to do loads of things about my troupe and the decorators and the apartment."

"Let's do it tomorrow, Kathy. Let's slip down to the city hall and..."

"Your operating tomorrow," she said triumphantly.

"We could be married at noon."

"Yes, and start our married life with you rushing back to the hospital and leaving me alone. What am I to do, darling, when we're married and all your time belongs to your patients?"

"I'll always come home to you. Is it necessary for wives to have more than that?" he asked seriously.

"I'm afraid it is." The bantering note had left her voice.

"You couldn't possibly know because you're not a wife yet," he spoke with a lightness he did not feel.

"Owen, I don't want to be the kind of a wife who has to have other men to take her to parties," she looked at him for support.

"Then it will not be necessary."

She looked out the window and in the silence she began to be afraid. Of course, she cared for Owen. She had been impressed with him from that first moment when she had met him at a committee meeting. He was so distinct, so different from the male parasites in her own set.

Sometimes the parasites were interesting. They made a girl feel interesting. She loved the flirtations, the unexpected little attentions, the intimate luncheons, the compliments, the air of excitement to come. When she was married to Owen there would be no more. And there would be no more Gary.

She must change. She must be more—just more like Carol. She smiled to herself and held her cigarette up for Owen to light.

"It was sweet of you, darling, to send her flowers," she said to him. "Flowers?" Owen lost in his own thoughts had forgotten about Carol.

"Carol's flowers. She looked almost pretty as she thanked you for them."

"Oh, those." He dismissed them. "One marks a lady's birthday... the pearls were beautiful. You shall have beautiful pearls, Kathy."

With her thumb she touched the square cut emerald on her engagement finger. Her mind flew to the little diamond pin Gary had given her. She dare not wear it. It wasn't that she loved Gary. She found him exciting—and important. Oh, dear! What was she to do?

"It's just beginning, Owen. See how many cars there are, ahead of ours. They're starting early; it's hardly midnight," Kathy said to Owen.

"I wonder what's Carol doing?" Owen spoke a kindly thought aloud. Kathy looked at him sharply and dismissed jealousy from her mind. One couldn't be jealous of poor, plain Cousin Carol.

"Nothing, dear doctor, nothing. She never does anything but bury her nose in a book. She's undoubtedly sleeping the sleep of the pure, dreaming nice little classical dreams. Give me my bag, pet. I must look quite a wreck."

But Carol was not sleeping and the dreams she was dreaming were destined to leave their marks on all their lives.

B.C. Electric Presents Radio Show

ADVANCE FOUND IN SHORT WAVE RADIO FEATURED AT SHOW

B.C. Electric Stages Educational Drive to Prove to Public the Never-Ending Source of Radio Entertainment Now Attainable—Representative Lines Are Shown

WITH a fine representative display of the latest 1936 all-wave radios assembled in the auditorium above its salesrooms, the B.C. Electric opens its annual Radio Show, today, with a special goal in view: namely, that of making the general public realize the wonderful advance that has been made in radio entertainment since the building up of regular short-wave broadcasting.

"Special emphasis is being laid," Mr. McKittrick, merchandise manager for the company, states, "on the fact that reliable world reception is a definite, everyday reality—a fact which a great many people do not seem to realize—and on the vast field of entertainment which is being missed by those whose radios confine them to domestic broadcasts."

SPECIAL OFFERS
During this week the B.C. Electric is making special trade-in offers for old sets, he stated, and added that any radio more than two years old is obsolete, in view of the radical improvements which have been made in the last two years and incorporated in the 1936 receivers. Mr. McKittrick emphasized this point and explained that the special offers are being made to enable more radio fans to enjoy in full the entertainment available nowadays through world air channels.

Inviting all Victoria radio fans to visit the show, Mr. McKittrick remarked on the fine network programmes and short-wave schedules being put on this fall. Grand opera from the important musical centres of the world, bull fights from Spain, European and world political news and first-hand reports from the Ethiopian front are a few of the thrills regularly experienced by short-wave radio owners, he said.

TUBE NOW DOES TWICE THE WORK

Modern Radio Sets Proving More Compact and Much Less Expensive

Many people have commented on the cheapness of radio sets today as compared with five or six years ago. Others comment on the compactness and simplicity of them. A moment's thought will show you that both these changes are almost entirely due to the efforts of the tube engineers. As time has gone on more and more of the work function of a radio set has been built into the tubes and less and less has been necessary in the set itself.

This very natural development has gone on to a point where engineers are now putting two or more functions in the same tube, so that today it is easily possible to build a set which will give equal response in all characteristics with only seven or eight tubes to a comparable set which would have required fifteen or sixteen tubes several years ago.

When you hear of this year's model radios being described for instance, as a six-tube set with eight-tube functions, you will realize that while this particular radio may only use six tubes, it really does the work of eight tubes. In cutting down the number of the tubes used engineers can cut down on the cost of building the chassis, and radio sets can be made much more compact and less expensive.

Special Broadcast To Be Feature of B.C.E. Radio Show

AN unusual attraction for local radio fans who visit B.C. Electric Radio Show this week will be a short wave programme that is to be picked up at the Show every afternoon. The B.C. Electric has made arrangements with Radio Sales Service Ltd., operators of Station VE 9 KB, in Vancouver, to broadcast a special programme for the benefit of show patrons. The station, which operates on a frequency of 4,795 Kc., will start its programmes each day at 2:30, and they will last half an hour.

SHORT WAVE CLASSIFIED IN CHANNELS

All Broadcasts Not Entertainment—Commerce Depends on Short Wave

Generally speaking there are seven classes of short wave programmes to be heard. These are not all entertainment features such as are put on by the large broadcasting companies, but they have characteristics which divide them into general classes.

(1) Telegraph or code stations, the ground wave, resulting in a so-called dead-spot region within which reception is impossible or extremely satisfactory. The length of the region wherein such conditions are effective is known as the skip distance, varying greatly from day to night and from Summer to Winter approximately as shown in the table.

IMPORTANCE OF TIME

When attempting to receive distant or foreign stations, the time standards observed at various longitudes throughout the world must be considered. At 8:00 p.m. in Ottawa it is—of the next day—1:00 a.m. in London, 2:00 a.m. in most of Europe and at 11:00 a.m. in Australia. On the American continent, therefore, regular evening broadcasts from Europe will be received in the late afternoon and from Australia in the morning.

Special programmes, however, are frequently transmitted from European stations at times chosen for evening reception in America.

Although reception on the short wave lengths is less affected by atmospheric or static and good results may be had in midsummer even during a thunderstorm, the reverse is true of man-made interference. Electrical machinery such as trolleys, dial telephones, motors, electric fans, automobiles, airplanes, electrical appliances, flashing signs and oil burners create far more interference with the shorter waves than to frequencies in the standard broadcast band (200 to 535 metres).

While the foregoing statements are valid, many other factors may so influence the transmission of short waves that exceptions are probable in certain locations. Experience in the operation of short wave receivers in a given location is the best guide as to what to expect in reception at various times.

TUNING MUST BE "FINE"

The average listener may tune in a powerful broadcast station somewhat indifferently, as a little latitude either way does not distort proand afternoon and from South America best in the evening.

IMPORTANT POINTS

The following important points must be considered in order to enjoy short wave programmes:

1. It is necessary to have a good short wave or all wave radio set. To bring in distant stations you need plenty of power and this can only be secured by a well engineered and finely constructed short wave set. Extra power makes for fine reproduction and enable you to really travel the radio waves.

2. Your set must be properly installed and serviced. Even a good set will not get distant stations unless equipped with a good antenna system and every part of the radio set must be in good working order.

3. The ordinary broadcast aerial generally gives fair results but to secure the best possible reception, which means for short wave reception, satisfactory signal power and the ability to tune in the station whose signal may be very weakly impressed on your aerial, it is well worth installing a new scientifically designed short wave aerial.

NEED GOOD TUBES

4. You need good tubes. A good receiver, even though properly installed and serviced, is of little value unless it is properly powered.

5. In general, the more power a station has, the farther it can be heard. This, of course, has considerable bearing on the number of stations you will hear from time to time, and though not an absolute rule, it will explain why you may be able very often to hear a great distance on certain wavelengths when other stations or adjacent wavelengths cannot even be picked up. Short wave transmission seems capable of doing almost impossible things.

6. Atmospheric conditions have an effect on radio reception from distant as well as local stations. Strong static, either natural or man-made, will occasionally prevent good radio reception—therefore the importance of a properly designed short wave antenna, engineered to reduce disturbing and annoying interference to the minimum.

Child specialists say that between the ages of four and twelve years a very active child requires double the total calories of a very quiet child.

CANADIAN INVENTS "MOVIE" EQUIPMENT

TORONTO, Nov. 11 (C.P.)—Archibald J. Johnson, formerly employed in the Ontario Government motion picture bureau, demonstrated today his invention of third dimension movies. Johnson said he uses ordinary film and projector, but that the whole process is in the camera, which can be manufactured as cheaply as the camera now used. Johnson said he has been working on "stereoscopic movies" for fifteen years and believes he has the solution.

A hot bath may be from 100 to 112 degrees Fahrenheit. A cold bath should be between 35 and 60 degrees.

B. C. Electric Symphony Orchestra

Here is the orchestra responsible for the Monday evening radio programme, the B.C. Electric Symphony Hour. Seated in the centre is Allard de Ridder, conductor of the orchestra and conductor of the Vancouver Symphony Orchestra, from which this organization is selected. The programme is on the air every Monday at 8:30 p.m. over CFCV and CJOR.

The earliest glove makers in history were the monks under Charlemagne, who were granted the unrestricted right of hunting in return for making gloves, girdles and book covers from the skins of the deer they killed.

(2) police stations, (3) aircraft stations, (4) telephone stations, (5) amateur stations, (6) experimental stations and (7) short wave relay stations, more commonly called short wave broadcast stations. These groups have been assigned certain channels, principally confined as far as listener interest is concerned to the following short wave bands commonly known as 19 metres, 25 metres, 31 metres and 49 metres. Short wave stations on certain wave lengths may be tuned in only at certain times of the day or night.

MOST SATISFACTORY

In the 19 metre band, stations situated at a distance of 1,500 miles or greater will be found most satisfactory. Signals in this band will generally be heard during daylight hours—rarely after nightfall or when any appreciable portion of the transmission path is in darkness. Wave-lengths below 19 metres are useful only when transmitted entirely through daylight and over long distances (2,000 miles or more); ordinarily they can not be received after sunset.

Reception from stations operating in the 25 metre band is most common when a span of 1,000 miles or more separates the receiver and transmitter. Such transmission over distances of less than 2,000 miles will be received best during daylight hours. The more distant stations, however, can still be heard well after nightfall under favorable conditions.

Thirty-one (31) metre stations afford greater reliability of service to receivers situated at a distance exceeding 800 miles. Good reception from distant stations in this band is possible both day and night.

Broadcast transmission at 49 metres is most reliable when received from a distance of 300 miles or more, although good reception at distances greater than 1,500 miles can be expected only when a large portion of the signal path lies in darkness.

EXPERIMENTAL STATIONS

Experimental stations owned and operated by private individuals can often be heard around 20 metres. Experimental stations such as that used by Admiral Byrd are usually heard below 50 metres, day or night. The most interesting of all short wave reception, of course, are the programmes from relay stations heard from all over the world.

Transmitted signals of any wave length are known to consist of two components—the "ground" wave and the "sky" wave. The former remains close to the earth's surface, providing reliable service only over short distances from the broadcasting station. The sky wave, however, travels into the higher layers of the atmosphere and is reflected back to the earth's surface at an appreciable distance from the station. With short-wave signals, the sky wave usually does not return within the radius covered by grammes very much. With short wave, however, it is necessary to tune the station much more finely and always be prepared to seek another station should atmospheric conditions be unfavorable.

It is a good plan for a complete log to be kept by the listener so that he can mark down the exact dial readings for each station heard, also the hours. This will save time afterwards in tuning the same station.

Generally speaking, stations from Asia come in best in the early morning; from Europe in the morning

TUNING MOST IMPORTANT IN SHORT WAVE

Best Results Are Often Not Attained Through Lack Of Knowledge

There are few more delightful or thrilling means of entertainment than listening to world-famous programmes and new events. Yet there are many who do not get the full pleasure that should be theirs with a short-wave radio receiver.

To know how, when, and where to tune your radio is to obtain the best possible results from the modern miracle of short-wave reception from the four corners of the earth.

Purchasers of short-wave receivers are frequently disappointed in foreign short-wave reception because of lack of knowledge of how to get the best possible results. Careful observation of the following suggestions will add greatly to your enjoyment of the short-wave possibilities of your set.

SIX SUGGESTIONS

1. Set the volume control at a point which will insure your hearing any signal that comes in.

2. If reception is noisy due to local or atmospheric interference, an improvement will be made by turning the tone control clockwise as far as it will go.

3. Turn the station selector slowly—very slowly—back and forth over the dial area in which you expect to bring in one or more stations and listen attentively for voice, music or a slight "swishing" sound indicating a station.

4. In contrast to tuning on the standard broadcast band, where in one-eighth of an inch on your dial there may be only one or two stations in the short-wave (high frequency) bands, there may be several stations only a fine hair-line apart on your dial.

SHORT-WAVE STATIONS

5. Short-wave stations are, speaking generally, segregated or bunched in groups, that is, around 15 on your dial (10M band), around 12 (25M band), around 9 to 10 (31M band) and around 6 (49M band). There are, of course, stations outside these bands, as can be found by reference to any reliable list of principal stations.

6. Do not become disappointed and discouraged because you may have been led to expect the impossible. No one can honestly guarantee satisfactory reception from distant stations at any time. Constantly changing atmospheric conditions, local electrical interference, etc., make such a guarantee impossible. But—there are many hours—daylight and dark Summer and Winter—of thrilling foreign short-wave entertainment that are yours for the taking, if you will take reasonable care in tuning-in.

SON OF SULTAN LIVED TOO HIGH

Compelled to Renounce Rank and Now Selangor Is Without a Titled Head

SINGAPORE, Nov. 11 (U.P.)—An heir to the throne is wanted in the Federated Malay States of Selangor, but nobody can be found to accept the position.

A few months ago the Sultan of Selangor and his British advisers compelled the Sultan's son, Tengku Musa Iddin, to renounce his rank and title of Raja Muda ("Young Ruler"), which carries the right of succession.

Tengku Iddin, who now receives a pension of about $75 a week from the State exchequer, was forced to renounce his title because of dissatisfaction with his mode of living and the heavy debts he had incurred.

Since then the aged Sultan has tried to find one among his sons who is willing to accept the title of Raja Muda. One reason for this unwillingness is a superstition which has grown up around the title, for it is a fact that no holder of the title has ever succeeded to the throne, having either been deposed or died before succession.

A lady touring in Europe paused momentarily in Czechoslovakia to purchase a birthday present for her brother in New York—a handsome and expensive cocktail set. Her brother says, anyway, he guesses it was a cocktail set; it arrived in small and almost unrecognizable fragments.

As he was musing over the ruins, he discovered that the far-off Czechoslovakian shipping clerk who had wrapped the package had had presentiments of disaster. In large letters he had inked a warning on the wrapping paper: "Inexplicably Breakly!"—The New Yorker.

TUBE TESTING EXPERT'S WORK

Attempts of Layman Frequently End in Damage To Radio Set

No doubt you have examined some of the new 1934-1935 radio tubes and have noticed the definite tendency toward smaller tubes. The smaller bulb was not introduced to cut down the cost of producing the radio tube. As a matter of fact, as far as the bulb is concerned it is more expensive.

In giving the radio set engineer almost every kind of tube that can be imagined so that he could better his creations, it was found necessary to develop a different tube for every function and in many cases where the engineer desired to introduce two or more functions in one tube, this led to still further design which made necessary the introduction of bases having as many as eight pins.

DESIGNS CONFUSING

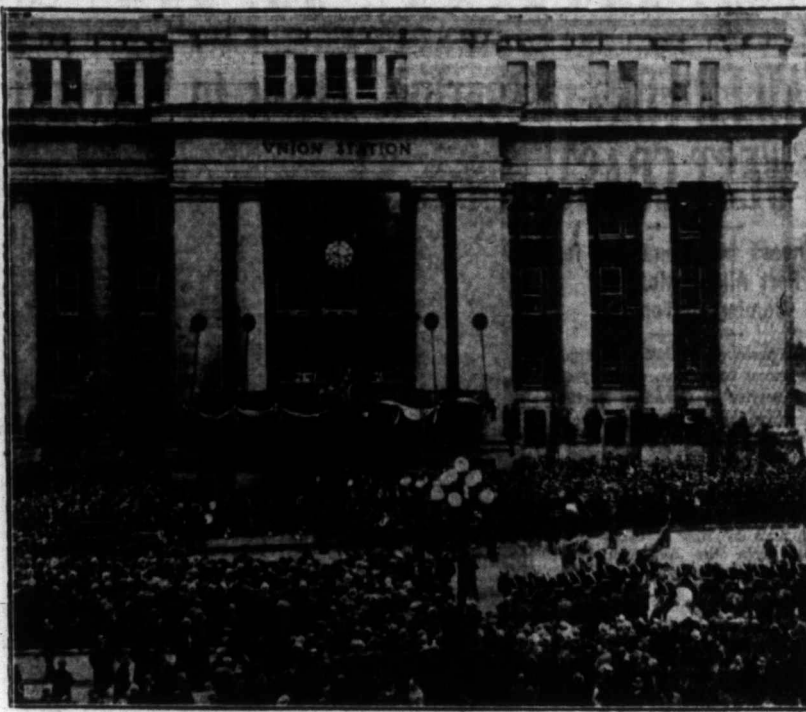

This multiplicity of designs and styles is very confusing to the layman who is taking a very great risk in removing tubes from his radio unless he knows exactly where to replace them. Cases are occurring daily where uninformed radio owners have removed tubes from their sets and have replaced them in the wrong socket, causing damage to the tubes and very often to the radio.

Showing how simple it is to cause such damage is a recent case where a radio owner burned out four number 226 tubes, in a few minutes a radio owner had removed the number 226 tubes and a number 171 tube from his radio and as both these two styles of tubes have similar bases, he became confused, inserted the 226 tubes one at a time in the 171 socket and as the voltage was almost three times what it should have been this burned the tubes out as fast as they were put in.

Rather expensive experiment you will say. The only safe way to test tubes, therefore, is to have them tested in your home by a man who is a specialist at the job. This relieves you of all worry, uncertainty and unnecessary expense.

Britany is supposed to have received its name from those Britons who were expelled from England and took refuge in France between the fifth and seventh centuries.

Your Health and Your Weight

UNDERWEIGHT SOMETIMES AS DANGEROUS AS OVERWEIGHT

By JAS. W. BARTON, M.D.

While there is no question but that it is easier to take weight off the overweight individual than to put it on one who is underweight, nevertheless, there are many thin individuals who could increase their weight by eating more food and different food than they are eating at present.

There are, of course, a number who come from "thin" families, others whose body processes work faster than normal, due to overactivity of the thyroid gland in the neck.

Others of the very nervous type, who just cannot seem to put on weight. What is underweight or under-nutrition? How is one to know if he is undernourished?

According to an editorial in the Journal of the American Medical Association, undernutrition is where the body weight is not less than ten to fifteen per cent below the ideal weight for a given age, sex and height.

Among the unfavorable effects of undernutrition are general weakness, and tiredness, lessening of the physical and mental ability, and a greater likelihood to be attacked by disease. There is often thin blood and a dropping of the abdominal organs.

The cause of undernutrition is not completely known because a number of factors may enter into it. Among the suspected causes are (a) over-activity of certain ductless glands (thyroid in the neck for example); (b) peculiarity of the nervous system; (c) getting an insufficient amount of the right kind of food.

Sometimes cases thought to be due to gland disturbance or to the fact that the individual was of the "nervous" type, have been found to be really due to a lack of good body building food.

I have mentioned before the research work of Drs. J. M. Strang and F. A. Evans, as recorded in Annals of Internal Medicine, with a group of twenty-one undernourished office patients. These patients were given a diet containing sufficient body building and energy giving foods with very gratifying results in weight increase. During an average period of eleven weeks the average increase in weight was seventeen per cent, or about one and three-quarter pounds per week. Similar results were obtained in a group of eighteen hospital patients; their average body weight increase was thirteen per cent in a period of five weeks.

In addition to gaining weight many different symptoms disappeared, "the patients expressing a feeling of well being, and they became more resistant to fatigue and to infection."

That the rate at which the body processes work (metabolic rate) had nothing to do with causing their underweight was shown by the fact that this rate was about normal or slightly below normal.

Further, careful measurements showing the relation of the total weight of the food eaten to the total wastes from the intestine showed that ninety-two per cent of the food was digested and absorbed into the blood during the period of treatment. This shows that the stomach and intestine, in fact the whole digestive system, was just as efficient as those of normal individuals.

These experiments show that when diets are scientifically arranged, and followed faithfully, definite gains in weight can be made by the majority of underweights.

Now the foods eaten to increase weight must not only supply energy and repair worn-out body cells but must contain an extra amount of the foods that can be stored in the body as fat. Foods that will leave something to be stored as fat are bread, sugar, butter, cream, salad dressings, cream soups, peas, beans, nuts and dried fruit.

Fat meat and pastry are rich in fats but cannot always be eaten in underweights.

Milk, eggs, and meats must be eaten for body building. Fruits and vegetables, though bulky and apt to give a "full" feeling too soon, nevertheless are necessary in a building up diet because of their minerals—sodium, calcium, iron, phosphorus and others; their vitamins, and for their "roughage" which prevents constipation. The above not only makes a fattening diet but also a strength building diet.

The thought then in trying to build up weight is to increase the food intake by about one-fourth, adding to the diet an extra amount of butter, bacon, cream, salad dressing at meal times, and egg nogs between meals. The egg nogs can be made with syphon soda instead of the milk if necessary.

HOBBY SHOW IS WELL ATTENDED

Hidden Talents Revealed at Qualicum—Library Plans Are Explained

QUALICUM BEACH, Nov. 11.—A very successful and largely-attended hobby show in the Community Hall at Qualicum Beach gave valuable publicity to the proposed Vancouver Island library system.

More than 150 persons from all parts of the district listened to Dr. Helen Stewart, chief organizer, who gave an exceedingly clear and comprehensive outline of the proposed system. Her address removed many prevailing misconceptions and left few unconverted.

Her carefully worked-out estimates as to the additional taxation needed to provide for the expenses of the library in the various districts represented at the meeting were surprisingly low to everyone. The additional cost to each taxpayer per year (irrespective of the taxable value of the property) ranged from as low as fifty-five to ninety-five cents, the variation depending on the valuation and population.

Lightly sketching in the picture, Dr. Stewart outlined a central library, branch libraries in each small town or village, and a traveling library van, all combining to give a constant service and flow of books. She estimated it would be possible to have a starting nucleus of about 20,000 books. Apart from the ordinary circulation of books, Dr. Stewart emphasized how group activities in crafts and arts, music, drama, open forums, etc., would be helped and encouraged by such a library.

GREAT REVELATION

The display of hobbies of all sorts was a great revelation to nearly everyone of what might be termed the "buried talent" of the district. The wide range of exhibits included wood carving, weaving, metal work, illuminating, painting, miniature gardening, rug making, embroidery, fly tying, model boats, and airplanes, leather work, spinning, stamps, ivory carving and glove making. The great majority of the exhibits were of a high degree of excellence, and examples of great ingenuity in the way of utilizing materials were numerous.

GIVES TALK ON PRECIOUS STONES

Professor Warren Heard at Qualicum Beach in University Extension Lecture

QUALICUM BEACH, Nov. 11.—The third university extension lecture in this district was given on Saturday night, when Professor H. V. Warren gave an interesting illustrated talk in the Community Hall here on "Gems and Precious Stones."

In introducing the speaker, the chairman, Rev. J. A. Petrie, referred to his career as an athlete and Rhodes scholar, and to his position as a brilliant geologist and lecturer at the University of British Columbia.

Professor Warren handled his subject in a masterly and entertaining manner, outlining the various classes of gems and precious stones and their natural, synthetic and substituted varieties. He described the methods of testing stones, and concluded with accounts of the histories of the best-known jewels, such as the Kohinoor, Cullinan, Regent and Orloff, illustrated by glass models of the actual jewels. At the conclusion of his address, many of his hearers came forward to examine his specimens of stones, and numerous questions were asked. Professor Warren is scheduled to speak again at Parksville on November 23 on "Minerals and the World Crisis."

Corsets were introduced into France about the time of the Revolution, when the French ladies adopted the Greek dress.

When Being Shown Any All-Wave Radio

The new Northern Electric sets contain 90% less wiring than is used in most makes!

All Sensitive Radio Elements Completely Isolated From Internal Noise

All the sensitive radio elements of each set are centralized into the "CentrOmatic Unit," which is separated from the rest of the parts and armored against intruding "feed back" noises that actually occur in the audio system of the set. This elimination of internal noise—yours only in Northern Electric radios—allows a clear track for every radio signal, on both the standard and short wave bands, bringing out all the subtlety of the programme itself, and purifying and rounding out tone to a degree hitherto unknown. Weak standard wave and short wave stations, blotted out by internal noise on ordinary radios, are revived by the extraordinarily low noise level of CentrOmatic engineering.

The CentrOmatic Unit, with its absolute purity of reception, makes accurate tuning child's play, even on short wave. "Controlled Selectivity," another sensational improvement found only in Northern Electric radios, makes it possible to sharpen the selectivity of your receiver to bring in hard-to-get stations, or broaden your tuning to enjoy the full brilliance of easy-to-get stations. Every advantage of metal tubes, newest development in radio manufacture, is emphasized in CentrOmatic construction.

YOU'LL Enjoy FOREIGN STATIONS WITH A 1936 PHILCO

If you still think you must strain your ears... or your imagination... to hear foreign short-wave stations... just tune-in the new Philco 3116X.

Here's London... broadcasting dance music from the Savoy. No mere trickle of sound is this. You can dance to that music from across the seas!

Here's Paris identifying itself by the stirring strains of the "Marseillaise." Philco brings in the great European short-wave stations so clearly and strongly you can really enjoy their programs.

Try home broadcasting stations. How they have improved! Your favorite contralto's voice seems richer. That orchestra seems much larger. But it's all due to Philco High-Fidelity reception bringing you the overtones which give warmth and naturalness to the human voice... and distinguish the many and varied musical instruments, one from another.

Everything on the air... amateurs discussing their problems, police calls sending radio cars rushing into action, aircraft and ship stations... all the world is within the range of the 1936 Philco. Your Philco dealer will gladly demonstrate any of the 16 spectacular new models, and explain why Philco is the outstanding value in radio.

PRECISION CONTROL OVER EVERY BROADCAST ON THE AIR

Station settings are spaced farther apart on the Philco Precision Shadow Control Dial... Shadow Tuning shows you visually when each station is tuned-in perfectly... the two-speed Station Selector makes tuning easy. The combination gives you the easiest most precise tuning in all radio. The Program Control permits you to adjust the radio to receive each program at its best. Five Points—Points A and B for music and Point C for speech, from Domestic Stations. Points D and E for Foreign Stations. The Automatic Aerial Selector, used with the Philco All-wave Aerial, automatically switches in the exact electrical values needed to maintain maximum power on each wave band. In effect, five aerials in one!

METEOR SHOWAnxious to Take Advantage Of Last Chance for Generation

UPPER DARBY, Pa., Nov. 11 (AP).—The last chance to see a "good" shower of Leonid meteors for at least a generation will occur this week.

Astronomers are especially anxious to get as full a report as possible. "It will be nearly thirty years before another really great Leonid shower can be expected," said a statement today by Charles Olivier, director of the American Meteor Society, "and we should not lose this last chance, even if it is not a very favorable one."

ASKED TO WATCH
Observers are requested to watch on the nights of Friday, November 15-16, and Saturday, November 16-17, after midnight.

The moon, being in the neighborhood of the radiant, will cut down the number of faint meteors that may be seen, Olivier said, but should not affect the brighter ones. Olivier added that no such brilliant shower as that of 1833 could be expected, nor, indeed, one as rich as that of 1931, when more than 1,000 meteors were seen between midnight and dawn at one station.

"But the date of maximum has not passed so far that a moderate shower might not be possible," the astronomers said.

BRILLIANT FILM IS AT CAPITOLClaudette Colbert Has Leading Role in "She Married Her Boss"— Plot Humorous

Everyone has been waiting to see the inimitable Claudette Colbert do another picture of the same type as "It Happened One Night," which not only won her the official tag of "the best actress of 1934" but also brought high honors to the director, the scenarist, the co-star, and the producer.

Since making that immortal film, Miss Colbert has not been with Columbia, the company that produced it. But recently she returned to that studio to star in another light comedy, "She Married Her Boss," which finds its way to the Capitol Theatre today.

The theme of the new picture easily lends itself to buoyancy and charm. Miss Colbert is seen as a painfully efficient private secretary to a young man with bad digestion and a memory of a recent marital experience that turned sour. Melvyn Douglas is the bitter boss. But while Miss Colbert sympathizes with his dyspepsia she is rather impatient with his views on marriage, for she finds herself in love with him.

The home of the boss, who is the active owner of a large metropolitan department store, is in a sad state of affairs. A neurotic sister and a spoiled, precocious nine-year-old daughter do everything in their power to make his life miserable. The household itself is thoroughly demoralized.

Then again, he suspects that his secretary, whom he just can't do without, has been receiving generous overtures from other firms. So he decides it would be a good idea to marry her.

But the secretary has no intention of being majordomo both at home and at the office, and gives up business for domesticity, much to the boss' chagrin. In time, of course, the secretary divines his real reason for marrying her, and then the fun begins to fly.

COLUMBIA So that no technical error could creep into the sequences of "G-Men," the First National picture now showing at the Columbia Theatre, the company engaged Frank B. Gompert, criminologist of the Los Angeles county sheriff's office, one of the country's leading experts. James

Screen in Romantic-Comedy Presentation—Good Cast

Following an absence of six months, during which she took a well-earned rest, Barbara Stanwyck returns to the screen in the Reliance comedy, "Red Salute," which begins a three-day run at the Dominion Theatre today.

Barbara is no longer under contract to one studio, and in future will select her own starring vehicles. She feels it will be much more interesting to work for various companies, primarily because of the opportunity to play diversified roles.

An opportunity of this nature was offered her by Producers Harry M. Coetz and Edward Small in "Red Salute," and she readily accepted the assignment. Instead of her familiar strong emotional roles, Barbara plays a light, breezy, romantic comedy part as Drue Van Allen, a tempestuous college girl with a flair for bizarre escapades. She is quick-witted, trigger-tongued, but with a lovable creature, as Robert Young, in the role of a young buck private, discovers in the course of a fast-moving series of amusing difficulties that ensue when they are stranded together across the Mexican border.

Hardie Albright, Ruth Donnelly, Cliff Edwards, Gordon Jones and Paul Stanton head the supporting cast of this rollicking comedy, which Sidney Lanfield directed.

VARIED PROGRAMME TO BE GIVEN BY DANCERS

There is no monotony in the programme of authentic Spanish dances to be presented here on Saturday, November 30, at the Empire Theatre by Jose Cansino and Tonia de Aragon. The Spanish dance almost invariably tells a story, drawn from a wide range of emotions and giving opportunity for much effective miming.

The church in Spain officially regards the dance as an art like music, and it is frequently used in religious ritual. One of Tonia's most beautiful dances is "Corroba," which discloses the deeply religious mood of many traditional Spanish dances.

Another traditional number of a contrasting nature danced by Jose Cansino is "La Corrida," in which, according to a California critic (Paul Nathan), "the poetry of the bull-fight is caught and crystallized." Jose also dances the famed "Bolero," which requires such marvelous brilliance of technique that it is said it can never be successfully achieved save by a native-born Spaniard. There are numerous short as well as solo numbers, each telling its intriguing story.

BALLOON RISES TO
"Not a scratch" was the comment from the field about a dozen miles from here when the two climbed out of the gondola.BETTER RUSSIAN MARK
If record-checkers sustain their 74,000-foot figure it will mean that Stevens and Anderson surpassed by some 2,000 feet the hitherto unequalled—but never officially recognized—record claimed for a trio of Russian airmen whose venture last year ended in their deaths.

In spite of the favorable weather and generally ideal conditions attending the flight, it had its highly-anxious moments. One came a few minutes before they landed, when they wirelessed that the huge balloon and gondola—with an overall height equivalent to that of a thirty-one-story building—was plummeting downward 500 feet to the minute.

But it nosed into the farm land without mishap and this word was wirelessed to anxious colleagues: "Very nice landing."

BIG CROWD GATHERS

An army plane piloted by Captain H. K. Bailey, which had followed the big helium-filled balloon craft ascending across the sky like a meteor, electrified the countryside. By foot and by car, the curious raced to the prairie twelve miles from here to see the aviators and their epochal trip. A line of cars nearly four miles long was reported jamming the narrow country road within an hour or so of the trip's ending.

The flyers went at once to the John Methews farm, near Stickney. They jumped into a farmer's car and started for White Lake for "rest and refreshments."

They reached their pinnacle—far in excess of the official record of 61,236 feet set by Major Chester Fordney and Lieutenant T. G. W. Settle in 1933—at 12:30 p.m., four and a half hours after they took off. At 1:05 p.m. the descent was started. It proceeded satisfactorily for a time.

But anxiety swelled after some two hours. Stevens wirelessed the balloon was at the 23,000-foot level and "dropping too fast." For several frenzied moments the duo tossed out ballast. The downward rush of 500 feet a minute was braked.

THROW INSTRUMENTS OUT
A thousand feet from the earth the aeronauts climbed out of the gondola. They threw over their scientific instruments, which waited to the sod on parachutes.

During the half-hour they were at the pinnacle of their ascent, sealed in their nine-foot metal prison dangling by hempen threads from the world's largest free balloon, the aviators made rapid fire scientific observations. Above and beyond stretched a black infinity. Below, the Western Nebraska sandhills were obscured by a vague expanse of white veering into blue.

Sixty-eight below zero cold surrounded the ship as it moved serenely like a tailed, 315-foot comet. Inside it was 19 degrees above zero but the flyers calmly reported over the wireless, they were quite "comfortable" in their fur-lined flying suits.

At 1:05 p.m.—five hours and five minutes after they had vaulted from a natural bowl in the Black Hills near Rapid City, and whisked aloft at a speed that at times reached 500 feet a minute, the voice of Stevens broadcast from the top rung of aviation's Jacob's ladder: "We're starting down now."

FEAR FOR SAFETY

Those who recalled the ill-starred finale of the same pair's 1934 venture into the stratosphere—when their balloon ripped open 60,000 feet over Nebraska and they were forced to bail out in parachutes—crossed fingers.

It was apparent the descent was proceeding too rapidly. The officers dropped some of their scientific instruments. Anderson reported they were having some "difficulty" trying to brake the drop to 300 to 400 feet a minute, because they were still in the "iso-thermal" layer. That was the 1:30 p.m. report from 68,000 feet. An anxious interlude followed. Then, at 2:47 p.m., they were at the 40,000-foot level. There were signs of relief. They were too busy snaring scientific secrets to "navigate." They asked where they were. The pair used the most complete set of scientific instruments ever taken into the stratosphere, to good effect. They reported they had operated their spectograph, stratoscope and cosmic ray recorder. They took pictures of the earth from various altitudes. The flight was sponsored by the National Geographic Society and the United States Army Air Corps.

DESCRIBES SCENERY

KIMBALL, S.D., Nov. 11 (AP).—Elated but weary, two Army Air Corps stratosphere flyers who only a few hours before had been viewing the world from the highest point ever reached by man, slipped into Kimball late tonight, shook off several hundred well-wishers and returned in a small hotel without announcing plans for the future.

Captain Orvil A. Anderson and Captain Albert W. Stevens, who early this morning sailed out of the rock-walled natural bowl in the Black Hills of South Dakota in Explorer II, the world's largest free balloon, expressed complete satisfaction to Psalm CIV.

tion with the flight, their third attempt to conquer the stratosphere. "We could see the curvature of the earth plainly when we reached the ceiling," Captain Anderson said. "We photographed it, of course, and the curvature should be plainly visible in the pictures. We could see the earth at all times, but could not discern objects. "When we were at the top the sky above us looked dark blue. At times it seemed to be a deep purple. Below it was blue, and sometimes white."

CAMDEN, Mo., Nov. 11 (AP).—Judge Ed Thomas relates that he was traveling in the South when he stopped at a negro farmstead to inquire the way. A negro woman obliged, meanwhile admonishing a small son, whom she addressed as "Pizal Siv."

"Is that his name?" asked the judge. "Where did you find it?" "Right here in the Bible," she replied, getting the book and pointing to Psalm CIV.

Jane Dixon Says:

SOME MOTHERS SPARE THEIR DAUGHTERS THE "DRUDGERY OF HOUSEWORK" IN THE MISTAKEN BELIEF THEY ARE RAISING THEIR GIRLS TO ENJOY A LIFE OF EASE

Mothers who spare their daughters the "drudgery of housework" in the mistaken belief they are raising their girls to enjoy a life of ease and comfort may take a tip from Betty Jr., whose letter appears in this column.

Mothers who labor under the impression it is a sign of social superiority for their daughters to remain absolutely ignorant of the smallest details of cooking and housekeeping should likewise lend an ear to Betty Jr.

She's a grand girl, and some young man is going to be mighty lucky when he signs her up for a life partnership.

Dear Jane Dixon: I attend a girls' high school, and one of my subjects is domestic science.

The school is not located in a fashionable part of the city. In fact, the student body represents every strata of society, from the humblest to the highest.

I come from a home of which any girl would be proud. Both mother and father's family have been prominently identified for several generations with a profession that is respected and admired second to none. Father is carrying on the family tradition, and his work carries us to all parts of this country, our island possessions and even to foreign ports.

We've always had servants in our home. Sometimes only one, in places where help was scarce and expensive. In China we had five, and in the Philippines three.

Now to get back to the domestic science course in high school. Figure this out if you can:

The girls who come from the poorest and the most obscure families are the ones who are dumbest, or who pretend to be dumbest, about cooking.

AN AMAZING EXPERIENCE

The other day in domestic science class we were baking rolls, and a girl whose family is on relief said to me:

"Add a cup of flour? How do you do it?"

"You fill a cup with flour and add it to what's already in the bowl," I said.

"But how do you know when you have a cup?" she chirped.

"You take your measuring cup and fill it to the full mark."

"The full mark! Which is the full mark?"

I gave up. We'd had all the instruction on measuring cups any sane person could use.

She was baiting me, of course, trying to show how free she was of the ignominy of housework.

Just the day before, mother and I had done a five-course dinner for eight guests—important guests, too. Cook was ill and we couldn't find a replacement. The dinner was a grand success, and mother and I were proud as peacocks about it. You know how you feel, Miss Dixon, when you have a job and do it well.

What I'm getting at is—will you please tell some of these girls who think it's smart to be unconscious about housework that it takes brains, science and training to be a successful home-maker and hostess? You can't throw food at important guests, and you can't feed it to them from cans, either.

What is more, you can't build a healthy and happy home with a can opener and a list of restaurants.

Don't you think I'm lucky in having a mother who sees I have the basic training for care of a home—which should be every girl's ambition?—Betty Jr.

A FORTUNATE GIRL

Answer: Are you lucky, Betty, or are you lucky?

I know exactly what you mean, because I had the same priceless sort of a mother. It happens to be my mother in life to be, practically, a perpetual hostess. How many times have I gone into the kitchen and whipped up a short order breakfast, luncheon, dinner, supper? And loved doing it.

Because I have a pride in my home. I don't like husbands messing in kitchens except for fun. I'd feel pretty cheap if my husband took the fried chicken out from under my paws and told me I was making a blunder of it. And I'd hate having the fried chicken come to my table from an incompetent cook.

The girl in your domestic science class was suffering from an inferiority complex, lack of opportunity and a stunted imagination. She is more to be pitied than censured.

GUNNERS TROUNCE SCOTTISH IN ARMY FIXTURE

New York Rangers And Detroit Wings Play to Deadlock

Lester Patrick's Crew Opens Schedule by Playing To 1-1 Draw With Adams' Aggregation—Schriner Going After Scoring Honors

CECIL DILLON

New York Americans a 3-5 tie with the Senators.

The overtime deadlock was the first of two over the week-end, New York Rangers and Red Wings opening the Detroit season with a 1-1 tie Sunday night. In the three games played so far Chicago Black Hawks have won the only decision, a 3-1 victory over the Americans, Thursday.

Talk of Schriner as a bidder for Charlie Conacher's high-scoring honors is premature at this stage but Saturday he out-scored the big Toronto right winger, who didn't have such a bad evening himself with three markers.

The Primeau-Jackson-Conacher line was disorganized by holdout Harvey Jackson's absence, but Conacher was in rare form. He picked his sniping spots unhurriedly and gave Roy Worters no chance at all when he drew his sights on the Amerks goal.

After breaking through a shaky Toronto defence twice in the first period and again in the second, Schriner made the evening all his own by giving Red Dutton's team the tie two minutes before the game ended.

GOES ON RAMPAGE

Harold Cotton had celebrated his first appearance at Toronto in an American uniform by sniping the first New York goal four minutes after the start. Schriner did all the rest of the scoring, getting two on solo rushes.

Nick Metz divided Leaf's scoring honors with Conacher. His first goal came late in the third, a period marked by Amerks turning to defensive hockey to protect their lead. His second, in thirty-seven seconds of overtime, put Toronto in front for the first time.

Like the Toronto game, the Detroit encounter was definitely early-season hockey. It was different, however, in that the defences stood up better. Dave Kerr gave a sparkling exhibition in the Ranger net, kicking out thirty-seven shots. Normie Smith handled ten less in the Detroit goal.

Each team had a man advantage when they scored. Marty Barry, who looked good in his first appearance as a Red Wing, took a pass from Larry Aurie for the Detroit counter half-way through the first period, and Cecil Dillon tied the score midway through the second, working with Bill Cook and Frank Boucher.

Winnipeg Taking Decision From Roughriders

Winnipeg's whipping Regina Roughriders, 13-5, in the Western Canada football semi-final, but Ritchie's Regina warriors put up a stiff resistance before succumbing. Here is once the 'Pegs were stymied. They carried Riders back to the shadow of their own posts, but, despite a wild charging line, Olson was able to drop back and kick out of danger. 'Peg attackers are fighting desperately to get through and block the kick, but the Rider line was holding heroically. Their effective blocking is clearly visible.

NORTH SHORE WHIPS ROYALS

Great Second Half Gives United Seven Goals in 8-3 Soccer Win

VANCOUVER, Nov. 11 (P. A. A.)—A whirlwind second-half finish that netted them seven goals gave North Shore United an 8-3 victory over the league-leading Westminster Royals in an inter-city game here today.

Ashton opened the scoring with a neat goal ten minutes after the opening whistle, but Fidler equalized and Coulter put Royals ahead before the half ended, with Westminster leading 2-1.

On resumption, Ashton knotted the count and added another after McSwen had found the Royals' goal.

Spencer and Kozoolin each counted once and McManus added the last two markers for North Shore before Coulter drove home the final score of the game for Royals.

Boiling Point Is Winner of Feature At Tanforan Track

Captures $2,500 Armistice Day Handicap in South By a Nose in a Driving Finish—Coldwater Second—15,000 in Attendance

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 11 (P. A. A.)—A crowd of more than 15,000, the largest of the meet, Boiling Point, owned, ridden and trained by the McCown family, of Anchor, Illinois, today won the $2,500 added Armistice Day Handicap for three-year-olds and upwards at Tanforan. The race, over a mile and one-sixteenth, was clocked in 1:44 1-5.

Boiling Point, seemingly lost in the middle of the pack, came fast in the stretch to take the lead from War Letter to win by a nose in a driving finish. Coldwater, which won the $2,500 added San Francisco Handicap on Saturday, also passed War Letter to take the second spot. War Letter was third. After the race, while Jockey Darrel McCown

Ardmore Club Member Wins Remembrance Day Golf At Local Links

Slipping in with a card of 78-10—68, J. McIlraith, of the Ardmore Golf Club, topped the field in the fourth annual Remembrance Day golf tournament yesterday at the Uplands Club by a single stroke. W. H. Muncy, with 90-21—69; A. Woodcroft, with 82-13—67; and J. R. Angus, with 82-13—67, tied for the next two places, and the rest of the field from then on were well bunched.

Playing over his home links, Walter Gravlin, Uplands professional, turned in the best card of the day, a steady 74, to carry off the special prize. Norm Wallace had the best score among the simon-pures, shooting a 77, a wallop better than the winner, and three more than Gravlin.

By his victory, McIlraith carried off the Angus-Dillabough Shield. Consolation awards went to J. Norton, J. Richmond and W. C. Hudson. Guy Peel set a course record for one hole by taking sixty-five strokes from tee to cup. He did not turn his card in.

Following the tournament the prizes were presented at the dinner and concert held in the clubhouse. Bill Morrison acted as chairman and the following entertained: Frank Partridge, Len Foster, Fred Wright, Filmer Morgan, Alf Dendoff and Dave Hurdle.

WEST MUST BE GIVEN BREAK

Canadian Grid Officials Complain About Treatment Handed Out

WINNIPEG, Nov. 11 (P. A. A.)—Earlier dates for the Dominion final and award of some of the final matches to Western cities will be sought by representatives of the Western Canada Rugby Football Union at the annual meeting of the Canadian Rugby Union this year.

Debating the general Rugby situation, delegates at the annual meeting of the Western Canada Union during the week-end declared fairer treatment must be given the West or a break from the C.R.U. might develop.

Dr. E. A. McCusker, of Regina, member of the C.R.U. board of governors and former president, reported on the C.R.U. meeting last February, and said it was difficult to obtain just treatment for the West. Claiming award of a Canadian final match to a Western city had been agreed upon, Dr. McCusker said a motion was passed after he left the meeting to catch a train that all Dominion finals would be played in the East unless otherwise permitted by the C.R.U. He termed it "a most unsportsmanlike act."

A strong delegation will be sent to the next C.R.U. annual meeting to demand fairer treatment of the West. Earlier dates for Dominion finals and full constitutional guarantees to Western contenders in the final will be among the major points to be sought.

With their big guns booming in ruthless fashion, throwing counter charges at the opposition, with monotonous regularity and at the same time smashing gaping holes in what appeared like a stone wall rear flank, Charlie Morton's smart and well-drilled 5th Brigade rugger kept their season's record unblemished in the race for the senior league honors, yesterday afternoon, at Macdonald

Park, by crushing Canadian Scottish in the annual Remembrance Day fixture, 23-3. It marked the third straight year that the Gunners have captured the Fordham Johnson Cup, the first of the series going to the Scottish and the second ending in a scoreless draw.

Close to a thousand fans surrounded the playing field to see the charging 5th smash their way to one of the most decisive wins of the current campaign. The spectators expected to witness a real hard-fought and close match, but to their surprise they saw the Scots crumple and then gradually wilt away after the first fifteen minutes. The Kilties were outclassed in speed, stamina and teamwork for 90 per cent of the time. Only in the first twelve minutes, and at intervals from then on, did the Scots hold their own, for after that they found W. H. Muncy, with 90-21—69; A. Woodcroft, with 82-13—67; and J. R. Pitzer & Nex And Cooperage Soccer Victors Pitzer and Nex, undefeated Sault Ste. Marie and District Football League squad, chalked up another victory Sunday, when they defeated the Cooperage, formerly the Bluebirds, 4-1, at Bullen Park. Cooperage, formerly the Bluebirds, eked out a 1-0 decision over the Admirals, in a keenly contested match at Hampton Road.

TOTTENHAM HONORED

ROWE DASHES OVER

After losing possession the gunners opened up a beautiful three-quarter run, which was started by Fleming. The latter shot the oval to Ferguson, who slipped it to Rowe, and the score mounted to 11 to 3, after McInnes' kick failed from a difficult angle. Fleming was halted again by Howie Anderson, but the 5th kept charging into the Scottish defence and, minutes later, Rowe crossed their line for his second try. McInnes failed again. Just before the interval, Appleton tried a drop-kick, the ball hitting the upright and bouncing back. The score was 14-3 at the rest period.

Scottish went on the attack as the final half opened with Appleton and Forbes leading the offensives, but a sound back division sent them back every time. After the Scots got as far as the 5th twenty-five yard line, the gunners cut loose with a brilliant run, Rowe, Ferguson and Fleming figuring prominently in it, after Stipe, who played a clever game behind the scrum, had sent them away. Then Forbes, Appleton and H. Anderson broke away after the 5th lost possession, but a wild pass halted their rush.

The game was stopped when Fleming was injured but he soon recovered. A free kick went to the 5th and McInnes, trying a place, missed, the ball going wide. A twenty-five yard line scrum and the 5th charged back in sweeping formation and Dick Surphiss found the opening for another score, going over near the corner. The kick by McInnes fell short under the bar. From then on the 5th had a decided edge but some brilliant backfield work by Colgate prevented them from scoring more points.

INCREASES SCORE

Dan L. Swell made it 20-3 by just putting the ball across the line near the flag and McInnes' kick fell short again. After this Banks was hurt and was carried off but came back after a few minutes. Not long before the finish, Fleming raced over and put the ball down behind the posts, and McInnes missed from an easy angle.

McMillan refereed and the teams follow:

5th Brigade—McInnes, Copeland, Rowe, Ferguson, Surphiss, Fleming, Stipe, De Blaquiere, Buller, Englestone, Doswell, Eastham, Johnson, Simpson and Stewart.

Canadian Scottish—Colgate, Appleton, Forbes, D. Anderson, Bingley, H. Anderson, Stewart, A. Anderson, Boull, Banks, Rockingham, Acland, Thompson, Peard, and Campbell.

WINNIPEGGER IN KNOCKOUT

Frankie Battaglia Awarded Technical Kayo in Fifth Over, Pirrone

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 11 (P. A. A.)—Frankie Battaglia, Winnipeg's mid-weight dynamite, scored a five-round technical knock-out victory over Paul Pirrone, of Cleveland, here tonight and earned a bout with the champion of the division, Babe Risko.

The titleholder, from a ringside pew, watched the powerful Canadian-Italian smash Pirrone to the canvas five times, before his seconds announced he would not come out for the sixth round.

Risko had said publicly before the start of the one-sided fireworks that if Battaglia scored decisively over the rugged Ohioan he would get the call for the next title fight. The handsome Canadian could not have made it much more decisive.

Battaglia scaled 158, giving away three pounds to Pirrone. The handlers of the battered Cleveland ringster said after the fight that he had hurt his side in a workout last Saturday. This, they said, forced them to halt the bout.

Cowichan Team Blanks Sailors In Rugby Match

DUNCAN, Nov. 11. — Cowichan Rugby players defeated a Navy second fifteen at the Sports Grounds here Sunday afternoon by a score of 11 to 0. Three tries, one of which was converted from a difficult angle by A. Olmstead, made up Cowichan's score. A three-quarter run with a pass to Bigwood resulted in the first try, a twenty-five-yard run by Smythe with a pass to Strouger, the second, and some smart work by Mellin, who pounced on a loose ball and dived over the line for a try, which was converted by Olmstead, accounted for the home team's eleven points. R. G. L. Parker refereed and the Cowichan team followed: Hassell, Bigwood, Neary, Fitzgerald, Hedley, Collier, Strouger, Riley, Landie, Fletcher, Turgose, Smythe, Kyle, Mellin and Olmstead.

BAYS DEFEAT WANDERERS 4-1

Departmentals Score Listless Victory Over James Bay Footballers

Hudson's Bay and James Bay Wanderers football clubs, leaders in the Wednesday League loop, yesterday played through ninety minutes of listless soccer before a small crowd at Heywood Avenue, with the greenhatched departmentals scoring at 4-1 to win over the James Bay squad.

The game started out in interesting fashion and flashes of sparkling soccer were seen in the first half but the dull monotony of the second frame spoiled an otherwise likely-looking fixture.

Although his side lost, plenty of credit is due Sadler, net-minder for the Wanderers. He played a smooth game and saved seemingly sure goals. Sadler bounced balls from the goal, smothered them and cleared under pressing fire.

Both forward divisions appeared weak in the first half, missing easy chances but the departmentals tightened in the second half.

STEVENS SCORES

The Hudson's Bay team scored in the middle of the opening half when Barnswell, after tricking Sadler neatly, passed to Stevens, who registered without difficulty. Meantime, Sadler had saved three almost sure goals delivered from the forward line of the greenhatched.

The score was evened soon after the second half started. Fred McGee booted a long free kick into the area immediately in front of the Hudson's Bay net. Ed Ball crossed nicely to Fieldhouse and the score was 1-1. Eighteen minutes from the start of this canto, Stevens drew out Sadler and then flipped a pass to Jack Okell. Okell tapped the ball into the open net.

Six minutes later Barnswell drove in a fast one to Sadler. The ball, speedy and fast going, bounded from Sadler's arms into the net. Just before the final whistle Okell scored again after a forward rush by Okell, Stevens and Barnswell.

Cresswell and Shrimpton refereed. Teams follow:

Hudson's Bay—Baxter, O'Connell, Wyatt, McConnell, Kennedy, Williamson, Fish, Robinson, Stevens, Okell and Barnswell.

James Bay Wanderers—Sadler, Eastwood, McGee, Roscamp, Fieldhouse, Bourne, Ball, Thame, Patterson and Speller.

EXPLANATION FOR SUNDAY'S RIPLEY CARTOON

The Golden Baby—On January 2, 1868, General Napier landed in Zula (in what is now Italian Eritrea), leading a British expeditionary force against Emperor Theodore of Ethiopia. The march to Magdala, where Theodore resided, 420 miles away, began on January 25. On April 10, Magdala was reached and the Abyssinian forces defeated. Magdala was stormed and razed. Peace was concluded and the last British soldier left Africa on June 18, 1868.

Before the walls of Magdala, the British found an abandoned infant of unknown parentage. General Napier took pity on the foundling, adopted him and took him back with him to India and England. That baby, given the name of Workenah (O My Golden Baby) received an excellent education, became a famous physician, married an Ethiopian princess, and is now His Excellency Doctor Workenah Martin, Ethiopian Minister and Envoy Extraordinary to the Court of London.

And the Snake Died—When a rattlesnake bites a man and then dies from the bite, that's unusual. Yet that is what happened when a rattler bit Tex McDowell, of Hayden, Colorado, last Summer. Hayden has been collecting rattlers and extracting the venom, and at present has about forty good specimens. One day he grabbed a big one, but got it too far behind the head, and the snake sank his fangs into Hayden's hand. The hand, however, did not even swell up, and that same evening the snake died.

ESQUIMALT AND WESTS CAPTURE SOCCER GAME

Dockers Increase Lead by Defeating Saanich Thistles

Come From Behind to Nose Out Suburbanites in First Division Fixture at Enclosure, 3-2 — Greenshirts Move Up in Standing by Turning Back Victoria City Squad, 4-2

HOW THEY STAND

	W	L	D	F	Pts
Esquimalt	4	1	0	10	8
Victoria	2	2	0	8	4
Victoria West	2	3	0	10	4
Saanich Thistles	1	3	0	4	2

Coming from behind to eke out a 3-2 decision over the Saanich Thistles in the first game of the Armistice Day double-header at the Royal Athletic Park, Esquimalt widened their lead to four full points over the second-place Victoria City and Victoria West eleven in the title chase for the Garrison Cup, symbol of the league championship.

Victoria West battled themselves into a tie with Victoria City when they checked in with a 4-2 decision over the City boys in the afternoon. As in the first fixture, the eventual winners came from behind to gather in the fruits of victory.

The final game provided the best football of the day, with Victoria City displaying their best form in the initial canto. Victoria West, slow in getting into their stride, looked much better in the final half.

For the first twenty minutes the Thistles-Esquimalt game was clean and interesting, but when the suburban eleven had a penalty given against them which they did not think their opponents were entitled to, they "blew" and the game began to get ragged and slightly rough.

WESTS WIN
Trailing a 2-1 score as the teams left the field for the breather, Victoria West staged another of their second-half comebacks for which the old greenshirts were so noted, and finally came through with a 4-2 victory.

Victoria City played smart football in the initial session and broke into the scoring column quite early, when Harry Youson, right winger, breasted the ball into the net after Tommy Restell, brilliant young Victoria West net custodian, made a sensational save of Terry Peers' terrific drive that appeared to have goal written all over it. Restell dived and punched the ball out and before he could get set in his goal Youson breasted the pigskin into the unprotected net.

Victoria West, finding it difficult to get going, garnered their first and only marker of the initial session ten minutes before the interval. The greenshirts were given a free kick for hands against Bob Pearce, City halfback, just past the centre of the field. Roy Barnes took the kick and drove the ball close to the City goal, where Halkett headed clear. Brown, who patrols the left lane for the Wests, met the rebound and scored with a low shot in the corner of the goal.

PAYNE SCORES
From the centre the City resumed the offensive, and Restell saved three shots in quick succession. Near the end of the half, Victoria City took the lead again, when George Payne headed the ball into the net after Youson had crossed from the right lane. It was a penalty cross and one of the best goals of the season. Seconds later, Restell rebounded Payne of another goal when he picked off his header and just managed to clear. The rest interval arrived soon after with play still in the greenshirts' territory.

Victoria West began to hit their stride in the final canto, and after a number of end-to-end exchanges, the greenshirts evened the score at 2-2, when John Wait, playing his first game of the season for the Wests, banged a hot drive just under the bar.

City took up the offensive from the centre, and George Payne skied a terrific drive over the bar, and then seconds later, Youson shot wide with a first-timer. Clearing this attack, the greenshirts forced play to the other end of the field, and Rowe saved from Bell. Minutes later, Freddy Gibbons, City full-back, passed back to Rowe, his net-minder, and the shot got away from the goalie and found its way into the net. It was a shot intended for a pass back, which Rowe failed to hold.

Victoria City fought back in an effort to drive home the equalizer, but their shots on the goal were all turned aside by the brilliant young Restell, who turned in a sparkling game in the Wests' net.

Towards the end of the match, Gordon Bell completed the scoring when he walked through the City defence and picked the corner of the goal with a slow shot that hit the upright and bounced into the net.

In the only substitution of the match, Griffin replaced Dunlop on the Victoria West forward line.

McKinnon refereed and the teams were: Victoria West — Restell, Reside, Laird, Lorandini, Barnes, Storey, Bell, Dunlop, J. Watt, Morgan, Brown and Griffin.

Victoria City — Rowe, Halkett, Gibbons, Smith, Pearce, Robbins, Youson, J. Payne, P. Price, Peers and G. Payne.

ESQUIMALT WINS
Taking a 2-0 lead in the early stages of the initial half and then fading out of the picture, Saanich Thistles went down to a 3-2 defeat at the hands of the Esquimalt eleven in the curtain-raiser. All of the scoring was done in the first session.

Seven minutes after the commencement of the match Saanich netted the first marker when Alec Murray tipped the ball into an open net after Hood, Esquimalt goalie, came out while clearing John Murray's cross from the left lane. Esquimalt carried play to their opponents' end of the field shortly after this score, but erratic shooting and safe work by Gordon Chalmers, Thistles goalie, prevented early scoring.

Taking the upper hand again, the Saanich boys made it 2-0 when Ronnie Williams, bustling halfback, scored from just inside the penalty area.

The break of the game came a few minutes later, when, with Esquimalt on the attack, a foul was called against Harper in the penalty area. "Scotty" Stewart took the spot kick and scored with a low drive to the corner.

DISPUTE DECISION
Saanich Thistles disputed Referee Swan's call, but to no avail, and from this stage on the suburban squad cracked badly. Esquimalt began to get the upper hand here and after nine minutes evened the count when Holtum scored from close range after accepting Miller's pass. Just before the rest interval, Dick Miller gave the Esquimalt boys a lead that they never relinquished when he banged home a hot shot from close range. It was the final score of the match.

Saanich Thistles displayed a little more pep as the second half opened and for the first few minutes gave the dockers plenty of trouble. It was during this early offensive that the Thistles were awarded a penalty and Harper, entrusted with taking the kick, drove the ball right at Hood and her cleared. This was the last really dangerous play by the Saanich lads.

Esquimalt had a big edge in the rest of the play and in the last ten minutes had it over the Saanich eleven like a tent, but could not improve their score.

Saanich made two substitutions in the final half, Cockin replacing Stokes and Mowat going on for Williams near the end of the fixture.

Swan refereed and the teams were: Esquimalt—Hood, March, Evans, Edwards, Boyd, McBay, McAllister, Stewart, Miller, Holtum and Worswick.

Saanich Thistles—Chalmers, Essler, Harper, Williams, Crowe, Speller, Stokes, A. Murray, Stoffer, Glancy, J. Murray, Cockin and Mowat.

LIONS DEFEAT SEAHAWKS IN COAST HOCKEY

Vancouver Squad Outscores Seattle in Opening Fixture by 5 to 1

VANCOUVER, Nov. 11 (P).—Vancouver Lions, presenting much the same line-up to that which carried them to the championship last year, outscored Seattle Seahawks to score a 5-1 victory over the Art Gagne coached club in the opening game of the 1935-36 Northwestern Hockey League season here tonight.

Frank Sheppard, former Edmonton Eskimo, opened the scoring when he whipped in Lude Palm's rebound in the first five minutes of the initial period.

Palm took Dyck goalmouth pass to put the Lions two up early in the middle session, and Tip O'Neill added a third goal near the four-minute mark.

Dave Gilhooly, burly Seattle defenceman, drove in to take Gagne's pass for the lone Seahawk tally near the end of the period.

SPEED UP ATTACK
Seahawks speeded up their attack in the final period as they battled to get into the scoring column again but their four and five-man rushes cost them two more goals as Lions caught them up the ice.

O'Neill counted near midperiod on a pass from Clint Smith during a scrimmage around the Seattle goal and Brian Textall snapped in the last counter on another pass from Smith.

SUMMARY
First Period—1, Vancouver, Frank Sheppard, 4:27. Penalties: None.
Second Period—2, Vancouver, Palm (Dyck), 4:28, 3, Vancouver, O'Neill, 12:54, 4, Seattle, Gilhooly (Gagne), 18:54. Penalties: J. Sheppard (3), Pridham.

Third Period—5, Vancouver, O'Neill (Smith), 11:47, 6, Vancouver, Hextall (Smith), 15:06. Penalties: Hemmerling, Cressy.

U.B.C. RUGBY SQUAD BEATS REP FIFTEEN

Students Open McKechnie Cup Series With Fine 9-3 Triumph

VANCOUVER, Nov. 11 (P).—University of British Columbia's fifteen opened the 1935 McKechnie Cup English Rugby series here today with a smart 9-3 victory over Vancouver Reps.

The students, presenting one of their strongest lineups in several years, outthrew the Reps from the opening kick to the final whistle, marking up three unconverted tries in the first half, then holding their opponents to a lone unconverted try in the second half.

Dave Kenpy crossed the Reps' line for the first score ten minutes after the game opened. Seven minutes later, Shirley Griffin repeated for Varsity, and Dick Porter added the students' third try at the thirty-minute mark.

Reps counted their lone score midway through the second half when Bud Murray crossed the Varsity line after his teammates had forced two kicks from the students' twenty-five yard line.

FIFTH BRIGADE DOWNS SCOTS

Gunners Win Intermediate Rugby Fixture From Canadian Scottish

In the preliminary half of the annual 5th-Scottish Rugby fixture played yesterday afternoon at Macdonald Park, 5th Brigade intermediates set the winning example to their senior team by taking a clean victory from the Scottish to the tune of 9-0.

The game was cleanly contested all the way and marked by few rough tactics. Smith, Winsby and McDonald went over for the 5th, the attempted converts all being missed.

Three minutes of play had barely ticked by when a fine blue and red three-quarter run ended with Smith crossing the line for the first three points. Both teams fought on fairly even terms for the remainder of the half, neither fifteen being able to make any definite advances goalward.

In the second half, however, the Fifth Regiment three, who proved much stronger than their opponents in the loose, secured possession of the ball and Winsby added their second try after a nice run. The scoring ended soon afterward with

HAS TO WAIT LIKE OTHERS

Dr. Dafoe Makes Two Mistakes in Trying to Name Quintuplets

By G. J. FITZGERALD
GALLANDER, Ont., Nov. 11 (P).—Snow settled lightly about the lonely hospital home of the Dionne quintuplets today, heralding the second winter in the lives of the famous children, now seventeen months old. Dr. Allan Roy Dafoe made his customary visit to the children and, although he has been doing the same thing almost daily since their birth, he had to wait like any other visitor until the gate of the tall wire fence guarding the outpost was unlocked by one of the attendants.

After the genial country doctor had shaken the snow from his coat, he heard the patter of tiny hands on the nursery door not far away—the quintuplets knew he had arrived. There were three of the babes at the door and the nurses had to take them away to avoid a "big spill" when the doctor entered the room.

FAVORED OF THE DAY
Cecile was nearest as Dr. Dafoe pushed open the door and so she was the favored babe of the day to be picked up in his arms. But Emilie and Annette were not going to be totally disregarded and, toddling along, they hung to the doctor's free hand.

Cecile noticed the doctor's glasses and after learning she could not poke her finger through them, she tweaked at the end of his nose. "That's a foul," said the little physician and he handed Cecile over to Nurse Lomereux. Then he picked up Marie, tiniest of the children, but her star in his arms was short.

Standing at the foot of her cot, Marie was making eyes at some of the hospital visitors. Suddenly her little legs collapsed and she fell back on Cecile, who was too tired to bother about the bump. But Annette was not tired and gave Cecile a poke in the eye to keep her awake—it didn't work, so she pounded her sister's head with both tiny fists.

The party was getting rough, thought Dr. Dafoe, so Nurse Yvonne Leroux started to bundle the babies up in the warm outfits for their veranda nap. The doctor, who claimed he could tell the little ones apart by characteristic facial expressions, attempted to pick them out after they were all "dressed up"—he made two mistakes.

ITALIANS CAPTURE ETHIOPIAN CAMELS

ASMARA, Eritrea, Nov. 11 (P).—Three hundred camels and an airplane were added today to Italy's spoils of war. Scouts captured the camels at Scialaf, southwest of Makale, routing fifty Ethiopians and seizing two drivers. The airplane, of 500 horsepower and in perfect condition, was found abandoned south of Makale.

What Today Means

"SCORPIO"
If November 12 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 8:45 to 10:45 a.m., from 1:45 to 3:45 p.m., and from 7:45 to 9:45 p.m. The danger periods are from 6:45 to 8:45 a.m., from 10:45 a.m. to 12:45 p.m., and from 5:45 to 7:45 p.m.

If you should have to face something that you may fear will be bolder, and you are likely to be surprised at the harmonious results. You perhaps will discover things are seldom as bad as you anticipate. This day you may find out that there are far more really decent people in this world than you ever suspected. Business generally should have a decided pick up. It should prove auspicious for various forms of financing, and money-making possibilities are excellent. Friends probably will be inclined to respond readily to any suggestions involving social activities, so invitations can be extended without much fear of their being declined. Married and engaged couples, and those who are in love, may find an opportune time to discuss ideas, which hitherto they have hesitated talking about.

If a woman and November 12 is your birthday, Dame Nature probably has blessed you with many graces, as well as virtues. Patience is perhaps one of the virtues you have to cultivate, if you wish for more contentment. You may be inclined to fret too much over trifles. Don't do it, for it does not pay. You should be very versatile, and have a quick ear for music. If you ever take up writing seriously the result may be surprising. Do not be timid about making your wishes known. Friends cannot be of service unless they know there is something they can do for you. There is a possibility you possess a voice, and have the dictation that might be profitably employed in some form of radio work. Teaching, clerical or secretarial employment, as well as selling, may offer excellent means of earning a living. You should be very happy as a wife and mother.

The child born on November 12 may, when it reaches its teens, have a decidedly poetic imagination, or a gift for writing, which ought to be encouraged.

If a man and November 12 is your natal day, you may be inclined to be a little too formal, with casual acquaintances, for your own good. Cultivate a warmth of manner, and be responsible to friendly advances, if you wish to gain popularity in either a business or social way. Printing, publishing, writing, sculpturing, painting, salesmanship or educational work are likely to have a great deal to offer a man with your qualifications.

FRIEND OF WILD DUCK RETURNS TO DRAWING

WASHINGTON, Nov. 11 (P).—J. N. "Ding" Darling, critic of red tape and friend of the wild duck, today quit his job as chief of the Bureau of Biological Survey. He will return to his cartoon drawing board. The cartoonist will be succeeded by Ira N. Gabrielson, now consulting specialist to Darling and assistant chief of the division of wild life research.

FIRE IN PALACE SOON QUENCHED

Outbreak at St. James Causes General Alarm—Damage Only Minor

LONDON, Nov. 11 (P).—The explosion of a paraffin lamp in the servants' quarters of St. James' Palace, residence of the Prince of Wales, caused a general fire alarm and much excitement tonight, but the blaze was extinguished with minor damage to the palace.

Flames were spreading through the servants' quarters and the mess-room of officers of the guard when the firemen arrived, but they quickly brought the fire under control.

PRESENTS ON DISPLAY
Wedding presents of the Duke and Duchess of Gloucester are on display at the palace, adding to the interest in the fire, which brought a large crowd to the scene.

No member of the Royal Family was present at the palace at the time. The Prince of Wales was on his way home by the night express from Scotland, after attending the Armistice Day service.

Built by Henry VIII, St. James' Palace, in Pall Mall, was a residence of the King from 1688 to 1837. The original Gate-House, the Presence Chamber and part of the Chapel Royal remain.

SMASH WINDOW OF JAPANESE STORE

The Japanese took exception to the release by Shanghai police of testimony that the assassin was clothed similarly to Nakayama. Japanese officials assert the marine was shot down by a Chinese and intimate that the killing was for political motives. They denied rumors that a Japanese or Korean was the assassin.

In Peiping, the Japanese military command agreed to halt the arrests of suspected "Blueshirts" there, municipal authorities announced after representations by the mayor of Peiping. The "Blueshirts" are a nationalistic Chinese organization, which the Japanese claim has sponsored Fascist anti-Japanese terrorism.

REPLACING BLUEJACKETS

Japanese marines now in Shanghai reached more than 2,000 with the arrival of 500 more marines. Officers of the Japanese navy said, however, that they were merely replacements for as many bluejackets who are to depart for Japan on Wednesday.

General T. Ishii, of Japan, called upon General Wu Teh Chen, mayor of Shanghai, today, and urged doubled efforts in the hunt for the murderer of Nakayama. The dead marine was buried with full naval honors today.

Chinese, alarmed by the presence of the Japanese military force, continued to flock into the International Settlement for safety.

A LOCAL ISSUE
(Officials of the Chinese National Government at Nanking said the slaying was a local issue, to be handled by Shanghai authorities, and expressed hope that it would remain a local matter.)

A spokesman for the Japanese military attack called the anti-Japanese demonstration "a violation of the Chinese Government's assurances regarding suspension of anti-Japanese organizations." He said the anti-Japanese pamphlets were signed by the "Anti-Japanese National Salvation Association" and this body probably had close ties with the Kuomintang (dominant Chinese political party).

URNS DOWN PROPOSALS

(Copyright, 1935, by HAVAS News Agency)
TOKIO, Nov. 11 (CP-Havas).—Japan today formally turned down a proposal attributed to Great Britain that Japan join with other powers in granting a loan to China to aid in the stabilization of Chinese currency. At the same time, warlike intentions in Shanghai were denied by Japanese naval authorities.

In a note shortly to be forwarded to the British Government, Japan, it was understood, will state that any Chinese financial reforms based on foreign credits would be regarded as prejudicial to China's "rehabilitation" and would in reality constitute the first step in the control of China by the great powers.

FOLLOWS CONVERSATIONS

This decision was announced following consultation between the Finance Ministry and the Foreign Office concerning conversations between Amira Ariyoshi, the Japanese ambassador at Nanking, and Sir Frederick Leith-Ross, British Treasury official. A similar conversation was held last week between Sir Robert Clive, British ambassador in Tokyo, and the Foreign Office.

Naval authorities denied that the Japanese navy contemplated any direct action at Shanghai in connection with the murder last Saturday of Hideo Nakayama, a Japanese bluejacket. It was denied that any naval reinforcements were to be sent to Shanghai.

Fisherman Drowns in the Fraser River

VANCOUVER, Nov. 11 (P).—Arthur Jacobson, twenty-six, 3374 Eton Street, Vancouver, was drowned at 8:30 o'clock tonight when he fell off his fishboat, The Alice, near the Richmond shore in the north arm of the Fraser River. Jacobson was attempting to tow off another boat which had stuck in a mud bank when he slipped off his craft and sank into the water. He did not resurface.

Manitoba Farmer Perishes in Fire

GILBERT PLAINS, Man., Nov. 11 (P).—Accidental death was the verdict returned tonight by a jury investigating the death of Percy Molyneux, thirty-eight, burned to death when fire destroyed a barn on his farm four days before his marriage.

Fire of unknown origin destroyed the barn Sunday night. It was noticed by neighbors, who were unable to check the flames. When no trace of Molyneux could be found, the ruins of the barn were searched and his body was found.

BOY KILLED IN AUTO ACCIDENT

Max B. Raymer Walks Into Side of Car on Vancouver Street

VANCOUVER, Nov. 11 (P).—One person is dead and another is in hospital as the result of two separate auto accidents in different parts of the city tonight.

Max B. Raymer, eighteen-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Raymer, was almost instantly killed when he walked into the side of an automobile proceeding along Kingsway. He succumbed to head injuries before the arrival of an ambulance.

William Inge, eight-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. William G. Inge, West Sixth Avenue, suffered a severe slash on the side of the neck when the auto in which he was riding was in collision with another on Cedar Street. Suffering from loss of blood, his condition was reported as "fair" by hospital attendants.

No one else was injured in the accident.

THREE ARE SWEEPED TO DEATH BY WAVE

REDWOOD CITY, Cal., Nov. 11 (P).—Bodies of two men and a fifteen-year-old boy, believed to have been swept by an ocean wave from a rock at Pedro Point, were sought by coast guardsmen and officers from here, today.

Officers expressed belief the three were swept to their deaths in the Pacific when they were struck by a high tide wave while fishing from a rock at the Point, yesterday.

CULBERTSON on CONTRACT

By Ely Culbertson

World's Champion Player and Greatest Card Analyst

WAR AND BRIDGE
I often have commented on the relationship between the structure of a deck of cards and the structure of an army. The origin of all card games, clouded though it is in the dimness of past ages, obviously is a reproduction in less strenuous play of the most primitive of sports, physical combat. Although the figures that are depicted on the honor cards of a deck are mediaeval, nevertheless the marching of modern armies and all the conditions of modern warfare are mimicked in bridge. The nation which uses poison gas in its warfare is like the player who gasses away through the bidding and play in an unfair endeavor to rattle his opponents by his continual chatter.

The airplane observer who spies out the lay of the land and drops his deadly bombs is paralleled by the player who sits up as high in his chair as he can and endeavors to "peek" in his opponents' hands.

The moving spirit behind war is greed, and greed, too, plays its part in bridge. Sometimes, as in the case of the war profiteer, greed apparently pays dividends. But in bridge, as in life, so base an emotion never can be permanently profitable, and the player who is swayed by greed too often must surely come to grief in the long run through failure to make the necessary personal sacrifice to a game which, like life, is a partnership affair.

After a sermon such as this, no minister would use as an example an instance in which greed actually paid. Both because I am no minister and because it required the greatest skill on South's part to overcome the dilemma in which his greed for scoring his honors had placed him, I have no hesitancy in showing today's hand.

The bidding (North-South vulnerable):
South West North East
1 ♠ Pass 2 NT Pass
3 ♠ Pass 3 NT Pass
4 ♠ (Final bid)

When North bid two no trump, South determined to make every effort to score his spade honors. He expected his partner to bid three no trump over his three diamonds and decided that, although a game at no trump probably would be easy, he would risk returning to the suit in which he held 100 honors, hoping that, if his partner could not stand the spades, he could return to five diamonds and furnish enough strength to enable South to make it.

West opened a low club and, after cashing his ace and king, East led a third round. Knowing that one of his opponents had four spades, and praying that it would not be the player with the fourth club, South discarded a heart. West won the trick with the club queen and re-

Net Star Joins Salaried Ranks

NEW YORK, Nov. 11 (P).—Mrs. Elnet Burkhardt Arnold, the tiny Los Angeles tennis player and heroine of America's uphill victory over England last Summer, in the Wightman Cup play, became a professional today under the banner of Promoter Bill O'Brien.

Mrs. Arnold, who has ranked twice in the nation's "first ten," will make her professional debut January 11, in Madison Square Garden, against a rival yet to be named.

Gridiron Deaths Rapidly Mounting

NEW YORK, Nov. 11 (P).—Five additional deaths during the last week sent the nation's 1935 football toll to thirty-four—the highest it has been since 1931, when forty-nine fatalities resulted in a sharp revision of the rules—a survey by the Associated Press revealed today.

TAKE STEPS TO ENFORCE ORDER

British Foreign Office Imposes Penalties of Fine Or Imprisonment

LONDON, Nov. 11 (CP-Havas).—One year in prison and fines of £100 were provided for violation of the decree enforcing economic and financial sanctions against Italy, published by the Foreign Office tonight.

Importations of all Italian merchandise except newspapers, periodicals, books, music, maps and pictures is prohibited in the first part of the decree.

The second specifies the Board of Trade will be authorized to issue permits for all imports after November 18, the date on which sanctions become effective, of merchandise which had been ordered before October 19.

MONTREAL, Nov. 11 (P).—Albert Goyette chose the wrong time to climb through the transom of a drug store he was charged with trying to rob today. Goyette dropped into the arms of two constables who had been informed someone was in the store.

One night during the war when the Irish Players were at the Chelsea Theatre, there was a lot of movement and whispering over the house. Two actors were on the stage, and one said to the other: "What in the name of goodness is the matter with them? I'm thinking they don't like us at all tonight."

"Let you not be a fool," the other replied. "It's an air raid, so it is, that's goin' on."

"Thank God for that," said the first, devoutly. "I thought they were givin' us the bird."

BELANGER IS KNOCKED OUT

Manitoba Fighter Put Away By Seelig in Fourth Round In East

NEW YORK, Nov. 11 (P).—In a battle of booming rights, Eric Seelig, of Germany, knocked out Charley Belanger, veteran of Canada's lightweight fights, in the fourth round at the St. Nicholas Boxing Club here, tonight.

The Winnipeg ringman shot over a right to the jaw that dropped his foe soon after the starting bell, but Seelig, former holder of the German middleweight and light-heavy titles, bounced up without taking a count.

The European's speed gave him the edge from the second round on. He ended the fight, scheduled for ten rounds, with a right flush on the jaw, after fifty-two seconds of the fourth.

Belanger, weighing 174, had a twelve-pound advantage in the weights.

The Manitoban's handlers said it was the first knockout he had suffered in 200 ring appearances.

AUSSIES TRAIL ENGLISH SQUAD

ADELAIDE, South Australia, Nov. 11 (P).—Dismissed for 322 runs today, South Australia was forty-nine runs behind on the first innings in its match with the touring Marylebone Cricket Club eleven. Going in a second time the M.C.C. had scored 125 for five wickets when stumps were drawn.

VANCOUVER STORE HELD UP

VANCOUVER, Nov. 11 (P).—Two men, one armed with a gun, held up D. W. Saunders, clerk in the drug store of J. N. Fisher, East Broadway, tonight, and escaped with an unstated amount of money from the store cash register and that of a sub-postoffice.

THE "H" ENGINE

NAPIER, THE FAMOUS BRITISH ENGINE BUILDER, HAS DEVELOPED AN ENGINE WHEREIN THE CYLINDER ARRANGEMENT FORMS THE LETTER "H".

TWO CRANKSHAFTS, GEARED TO A COMMON PROPELLER SHAFT, ARE USED, WITH FOUR BANKS OF SIX AIR-COOLED CYLINDERS.

THIS ENGINE HAS A MUCH SMALLER FRONTAL AREA THAN THE NORMAL TYPE OF THE SAME POWER, THEREFORE ITS HEAD RESISTANCE IS LESS.

THE New Deal has no corner on the alphabet. Internal combustion engines have been described by letters since the appearance of the first engine with more than six cylinders. We have always had "I," "V," "X," and "W," type engines, and now comes the "H" type engine to join the parade.

This new engine is really two opposed-cylinder type twelve cylinder engines, laid side by side and geared to a common propeller shaft. This arrangement of cylinders makes for a much more compact engine as may be seen by the comparison with the conventional type of radial engine whose cylinders are placed like the spokes in a wheel.

This reduction in frontal area means much less head resistance and consequently greater speed and engineers figure that this gain in speed is worth the added complication of nearly tripling the number of cylinders. Splitting the power into a greater number of smaller cylinders makes for a smoother engine. The power impulses which arise from terrific explosions within the cylinders, are smaller and much more frequent. These multi-cylinder engines purr rather than bark.

How It Started

By JEAN NEWTON

WHY DO WE CALL IT A "WHOPPER"?

Whopper is one of those rare nouns which may be used to characterize almost anything—a very hot day, a very cold day, a home run, an upstart, a book, painting or automobile.

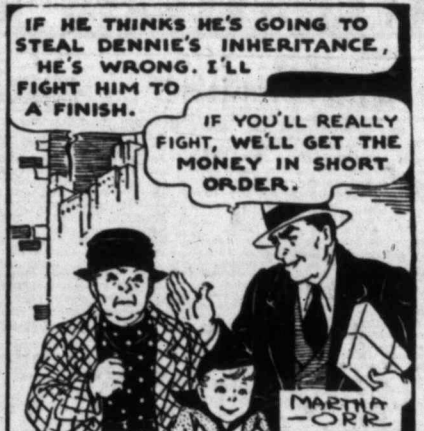

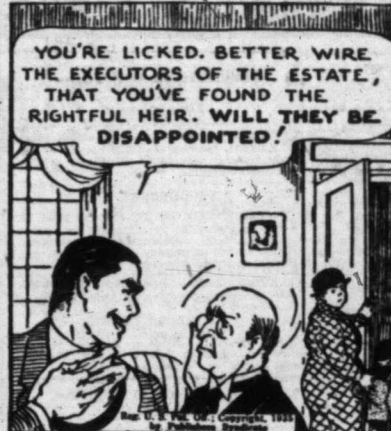

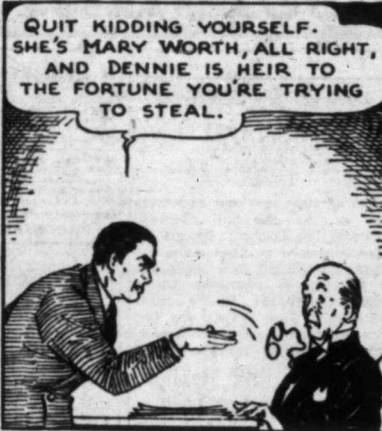

This peculiar language phenomenon is due to the fact that to be a whopper, the particular thing, object or intangible to which the word is applied must possess the quality of exciting amazement, admiration or tremendous surprise—because of bigness, greatness or some other outstanding—but, at the moment, astonishing attribute. It must, in other words, strike the senses almost as if with a blow.

It is this last significance which is the essence of the root source of whopper, which is cognate with the Old English whappan, to "whopple." The derivative English whop is whap or whop, a blow or quick, smart stroke.

WISHES ARE CARRIED OUT

Billy Sunday's Funeral Conducted Like Revival—No Mournful Trappings

CHICAGO, Nov. 11 (P).—They gave Rev. William A. ("Billy") Sunday the kind of funeral he had wanted Saturday—a rousing revival service.

They sang the "Glory Song" with zest and pleaded with "sinners" to come down front and be "saved" at his last rites in Moody Memorial Church.

"Don't put it off even until the end of this funeral service," exhorted Rev. Dr. John Timothy Stone, president of the Presbyterian Theological Seminary, in calling for converts to "Mr. Sunday's Savior."

SMILES AND TEARS
Four thousand faithful followers said, "good-bye to the boss" with a smile on their lips, but hardly an eye was not shiny with tears.

"No sad stuff when I go," the evangelist had said. "No black. No crepe. No tears. But have 'em sing the 'Glory Song.'"

So they stood up, those 4,000 who filled the church, and poured their hearts into tuneful praise of "The Glory" of "That Beautiful Shore."

Up front, arms swinging as they did in the old tabernacle days, Song Leader Homer Rodeheaver looked down on the casket lid and smiled.

FAMILIAR SCENE
A little sawdust on the floor, a few pews to take up a collection, and plenty of room for "Billy" to strip off his coat, vest and tie before starting his famous windup to "strike out the Devil"—and the old-time revival would have been complete.

Burial was on a little green knoll in Forest Home Cemetery, in the city that gave him baseball and first pulp fame, and saw his life's sudden close last Wednesday night. A few words were said, then "Ma" Sunday's two grown sons—William, Jr., and Paul—led her gently away from the grave at the end of the "sawdust trail."

Its apostle, who had spoken in almost every section of the land in his thirty-nine years of "fighting the devil," was seventy-two years old when the end came from angina pectoris.

FATALLY WOUNDED BY SHOT FROM CAR

ELIZABETH, N.J., Nov. 11 (P).—State Trooper Warren G. Yenser was fatally wounded Saturday by a shot from a speeding automobile he was pursuing on the state highway near Avenel.

Police announced that Edward Witowski, who escaped from a North Carolina prison farm three months ago, was held on an open charge.

ANNUAL MEETING SET FOR FRIDAY

C. H. French to Address Bruce, Huron and Grey Old Boys' Association Here

The Bruce, Huron and Grey Old Boys' Association will hold its annual meeting on Friday next in the A.O.F. Hall. This gathering is to be specially attractive from the fact that Charles H. French, a member of the association, will give an illustrated address upon the subject, "The Trek of Bruce, Huron and Grey From the East to the West."

Mr. French has an interesting story to tell, having spent forty-four years in the service of the Hudson's Bay Co., and before his retirement was fur trade commissioner. A number of pictures will be shown during the course of his address.

Supper will be served by the ladies, new officers elected, followed by a programme of Highland dancing, music and old-time dances. The present officers of the association are: President, David Mc-

Hall (Huron); vice-president, James Dinsmore (Grey); and registrar, Angus Galbraith (Bruce).

Houston Dock Worker Slain By Policeman

HOUSTON, Texas, Nov. 11 (P).—A strikebreaking longshoreman was shot and killed instantly Saturday when he seized an officer's pistol after an argument in a warehouse at Pier 13 at the turning basin. Harvey Parker, about thirty, was shot once through the heart with a .45-calibre pistol. He died instantly. H. (Pat) Patterson, special officer stationed at Pier 13, declared that he shot Parker in self-defence.

U.S. PRESIDENT LOSES GROUND

Former Washington Attorney-General Tells of Sentiment in His State

Eighty per cent of the middle class businessmen of Washington State are strongly against continuing the Roosevelt Administration in the United States, according to L. L. Thompson, prominent Tacoma attorney-at-law, who is at the Dominion Hotel for a short holiday.

Mr. Thompson for eight years held the important position of Attorney-General for Washington State, and is considered an authority on legal matters as affecting the Constitution of the United States. He is accompanied by Lieut. Percy Norman, also of Tacoma. "Thinking businessmen realize that President Roosevelt has deterred, rather than aided, progress toward recovery in the United States," asserted Mr. Thompson. "He has futilely spent more money during the past three years than the total expended by Federal Governments since 1781. Another year or two of his administration and the country will have to repudiate her debts and inflate currency," he claimed.

GOVERNOR LANDON
Mr. Thompson believed that Governor Alfred Landon, of Kansas, would be nominated as Republican candidate in the next election. He thought that Governor Landon's safe and sane financial policies would appeal to the electorate.

Last time The Daily Colonist representative interviewed Mr. Thompson, in 1929, was an occasion when the visitor "broke into print" by talking direct from here to his brother in Valparaiso, Chile, on a special hookup arranged by the B.C. Telephone Company. This has never been done before, nor has it been done since.

ANDREW CARNEGIE WEEK IS PLANNED

Victoria Public Library Will Observe Centenary of Benefactor of Education

In addition to the more than 2,000 public libraries established by Andrew Carnegie in Canada and the United States, Mr. Carnegie also made many other valuable contributions to the advancement of learning, all of which will be given proper recognition during the observance of Carnegie Week, November 24 to 30. Outstanding among Mr. Carnegie's Canadian benefactions, apart from public libraries, are two demonstration libraries, one the Prince Edward Island Library Demonstration, and the other the Fraser Valley Library Demonstration.

ADULT EDUCATION
Grants also have been made for adult education to various universities. The University of British Columbia recently received $50,000 for this purpose, and the Victoria Public Library has co-operated in every way in the carrying out of this adult education course, made possible through Mr. Carnegie's gift. Other benefactions include a survey of Canadian libraries; grants to university and college libraries and library buildings. The Victoria College recently received $3,000 for the purchase of books for its student library.

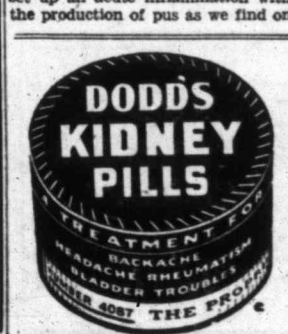

OAK BAY SEA SCOUTS
